Washington, Wednesday, March 24.

The tenure-of-office difficulty is at last in a fair way of settlement. The deliberations of the Judiciary Committee yesterday resulted in an agreement upon a modified bill, in terms almost identical with those given in these dispatches of Monday night. The bill is a virtual repeal of everything save the power of the Senate to assent to a removal. It restores to the President all the power formerly possessed by him except that of actual removal, but in lieu thereof allows him to suspend any officer during recess, all such suspensions to be reported to the Senate within thirty days after it assembles, and if any appointment be rejected, then the former incumbent, at the end of the session, shall resume the duties of the office. This is all there is left of the original act, and as Senator Morton said, "it is the veriest shadow of the substance of the original—a very poor photograph of a dead body."

The bill, in its modified form, was reported back from the Judiciary Committee by Mr. Trumbull soon after the Senate met. The Senate was full at the time, and crowded galleries became keenly alive to the events transpiring on the floor. The spectators were nearly all strangers, applicants for office under the Government, who consequently felt more than a passing interest in the question. They had heard the substitute read, but it is safe to assume, without any imputation on their intelligence, that not more than twenty-five per cent. of those present understood the exact bearing of the bill as reported. It was merely read once. Mr. Trumbull, who had charge of the measure, made no explanation whatever, until three or four hours later, of the changes which would be made in the law by the adoption of the bill reported by him. The galleries waited to hear the debate in the hope of learning from the speeches of honorable gentlemen the import of the modification.

Mr. Bayard, of Delaware, made the first motion, which was to lay on the table. Garrett Davis was the next speaker. There was a spirit of mischief in the old man's eye, and when he rose all who knew him expected that he would resort to his usual tactics of delaying the passage of anything obnoxious to him by redelivering another edition of that old speech about the Constitution, the fathers, the faded glories of the Democracy and the tyranny of the Radicals. He moved to amend by substituting the House bill, which repealed the law in toto. Mr. Trumbull, apparently out of all patience with Mr. Davis, told him and the Senate that his motion was out of order, in which view the Chair coincided. Mr. Warner renewed Mr. Bayard's motion to lay on the table, putting it on the ground that the Democratic members of the Senate were unacquainted with the provisions of the bill, and that it was due to them that it should be printed. Mr. Trumbull explained away this objection to the satisfaction of most people. But he did not succeed in convincing Mr. Sprague, who called for the yeas and nays. The motion was lost by a decided majority, and then followed debate.

Senator Morton led off, giving his opinion of the measure in the happy similes quoted above. Mr. Harlan succeeded in a speech as long as one of his railroad bills. Fowler took a patriarchal view of the situation, telling the Senate all about the Constitution. Ross recalled impeachment days evidently under the impression that his day of triumph had arrived, and feeling the truth of those lines about the right coming uppermost and justice being done. Sprague was splenetic. The whole world was out of joint, legislation was wrong, society was wrong, there was canker and disease everywhere, and socially and politically we were going to destruction. At the close of this jeremiad the vote was taken on the adoption of the amendment of the Judiciary Committee—yeas 37, nays 15. Twelve Republican Senators were absent, paired or refused to vote. They were Messrs. Cameron, Cole, Corbett, Fenton, Howe, Morton, Nye, Pomeroy, Pool, Robertson, Sherman and Thayer. All the Democrats voted against the bill except Senator Saulsbury, who is ill. Mr. Trumbull made an explanation of the bill, and Mr. Norton made the closing speech in favor of total repeal, after which the bill was passed.

In the Senate caucus this morning, to which this bill was submitted prior to being reported, the statement was made by Senators who had conferred with the President last night that he was entirely satisfied with its present shape, and would accept its conditions cheerfully. This statement, which is entirely reliable, had everything to do with its passage by the Senate, and the bill, even in its present shape, will only pass the House when a majority of that body are satisfied that it is acceptable to the President. General Butler is sternly opposed to anything short of total repeal, and it is not certain that Judge Bingham, Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, will favor the bill. The number of Republicans in the House, however, who prefer modification to total repeal is now much larger than it was two weeks ago. The prospect is now decidedly favorable to the presumption that the whole matter will be satisfactorily and amicably arranged by the end of this week.

NOMINATIONS BY THE PRESIDENT.

The embargo on appointments was somewhat relieved to-day by the transmission to the Senate by the President of some thirty-five nominations. The most important were Hon. Moses H. Grinnell, to be Collector of the Port of New-York, vice Smythe, resigned; Major-General Giles A. Smith, of Illinois, to be Second Assistant Postmaster-General, vice McLellan, removed; and V. J. Williams, to be Postmaster at Dubuque, Iowa. These appointments are not only based upon the good of the service, but nearly all of them give satisfaction to members of Congress from the respective States.

BUSINESS IN THE HOUSE.

The House proceedings to-day were devoid of especial interest. The better part of the day was occupied in the consideration of the District Railroad bill, after which General Butler reported the Mississippi Reconstruction bill, which was debated until adjournment without reaching any conclusion.

MISSISSIPPI RECONSTRUCTION.

The President this afternoon gave audience to a delegation of Mississippi Republicans, headed by Colonel L. W. Perce. After the introduction, Colonel Perce addressed the President briefly, and stated that they had called upon him to congratulate him upon his election, and to ask his assistance in securing the passage of the Mississippi Reconstruction bill now pending before Congress.

The President remarked that he had seen the bill reported, but he did not know in what shape it would pass Congress. He had conversed with at least three of the Reconstruction Committee upon the subject, and he did not think it likely that the bill would be passed in a form to bring peace to Mississippi. Still Congress had all the evidence on the subject before them. Colonel Perce here expressed confidence in the wisdom of Congress. The President said there was no way for the restoration of Mississippi by the action of Congress. To him (the President) the most feasible, the least expensive and the quickest way to restore the State seemed to be to give the Governor of the State, who is also the Military Commander, time to appoint all the officers under the recent law of Congress; then resubmit the Constitution to the vote of the people, allowing all to vote who are qualified under the Reconstruction acts, and none others. Congress to select such articles as they deem necessary to be voted on separately, without allowing them to affect the Constitution as a whole. There were, he added, portions of the Constitution that might be rejected and perhaps ought to be.

Colonel Perce here suggested and urged that the President of the Convention, who is authorized by the bill under consideration to appoint the State officers, being better acquainted with the people and their wants, would be better able to make judicious appointments than the Military Governor. The President made no definite reply to this remark, but rose from his seat, and the delegation, taking this as an indication that the interview was at an end, retired. They were not at all well pleased with the interview, for they expected to receive a thorough indorsement of the pending bill.

HON. HENRY L. DAWES.

Hon. Henry L. Dawes, Chairman of the Committee on Appropriation, has been tendered the appointment of Judge of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, the position having been made vacant by the resignation of Judge Hoar, the new Attorney-General.

SENATOR CONKLING AND THE CAUCUS.

Your correspondent desires to say that the report of the caucus proceedings in yesterday's Times, the accuracy of which was so gracefully impeached to-day by Senator Conkling, was based upon information furnished by Senators who were present at the caucus, and who still maintain the correctness of the report. Senators have it in their power to remedy such matters themselves—either remove the injunction of secrecy from caucus proceedings, or else abolish the caucus system.

POLITICAL DISABILITIES.

It is quite currently reported that the Democratic members of the House have resolved upon a course to force the Republicans to declare a general amnesty, instead of removing political disabilities by special legislation, as is now the practice. There has always been a minority of forty Republicans opposed to any removal at all, and the Democrats propose to unite with these and thus prevent the two-thirds vote required by the Constitution, and to ultimately force the passage of a general act on the subject.

OUR MINISTER TO FRANCE.

Mr. E. B. Washburne, Mr. Moore, Second Secretary of Legation, and Mrs. Moore have taken passage in the Ville de Paris, and will leave for France on the 1st of May. Mrs. Washburne will not accompany Mr. Washburne, and will not go to Paris before July or August.

THE MINISTER TO GREECE.

It is more than probable that there will be no change in the representative of the United States at Athens, and that Mr. Tuckerman, the present Minister, will not be removed.

THE QUESTION OF ADJOURNMENT.

The disposal by the Senate to-day of the Civil Tenure bill brings the question of adjournment up again for consideration. Congressmen generally are anxious to get away. The Senate appears indisposed to transact further business, and if the Tenure-of-Office bill should be sent to the President by Saturday next, the indications are that the final adjournment will take place about the 5th of April. The Senate, however, will be detained some days longer, in order to act on the nominations which will be sent in.

CUBAN AFFAIRS.

Señor M. T. Lemos, the Minister from the Provisional Government of Cuba to this country, has arrived here, and is now in consultation with leading Republicans and the Administration in reference to Cuban affairs generally. The revolutionists appear determined to sever connection with Spain at any cost, and it is stated that they will accept annexation to the United States, in preference to a continuance of Spanish domination.

THE QUAKERS AND THE INDIANS.

The delegation of the Society of Friends, who are here under the leadership of George H. Stuart, Esq., of Philadelphia, and E. S. Tobey, Esq., of Boston, had one or more interviews with the President, in company with Secretary Cox, of the Interior; Secretary Borie, of the Navy Department, and General Parker, late of General Grant's Staff. The Society of Friends will recommend, at the invitation of the President, ten or twelve of their number for appointment as Indian agents, to be assigned to a superintendency for the purpose of testing the experiment of treating the Indians on their peculiar plan. The locality where they are to be assigned has not been determined, but it will doubtless be some region where the exercise of their peculiar virtues is most needed, and where their experiment can be fully tried. The friends themselves are not over-confident of success, considering the peculiar difficulties of the situation; hence the limited scale on which they begin their efforts. They will work with industry and patience to Christianize and civilize the savages, in accordance with the sentiments of the President's inaugural address. General Ely S. Parker will shortly be appointed Commissioner of Indian Affairs. This, I have excellent reasons for believing, has been fully agreed upon.

Dispatches to the Associated Press.

Washington, Wednesday, March 24.

THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.

The Post Office Department has been officially informed that on Jan. 1 the distance between the termini of the Central and Union Pacific Railroads was three hundred and nineteen miles. One of these termini was nine hundred and fifty-five miles west of Omaha, and the other at Carlin, four hundred and forty-five miles east of Sacramento. On the 1st of February the Central Pacific Road had been extended to Elko, twenty-three miles east of Carlin, and on the 25th of February to Wells, fifty-five miles east of Elko. On the 24th of March the Union Pacific Railroad had been extended to Ogden, eighty-five miles west of Evanston, and the Central Road to Lucca, seventy-four miles east of Wells, thus leaving a gap of only eighty-two miles to be filled in order to complete the two Pacific Railroads.

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.

The Supreme Court of the United States to-day took up the cases of Francis P. Blair, Jr., plaintiff in error, against John S. Thompson et al., and Warren Woodson, plaintiff in error, against the State of Missouri ex rel. The petitioner in this case, Francis P. Blair, Jr., offered to vote at an election in Missouri in 1866, but the judges of election refused him the exercise of that right on the ground that he had not taken the oath of allegiance and loyalty as prescribed by the Constitution of Missouri. He had taken the oath with the exception of that part of it which was of a retrospective character. The question coming before the Supreme Court of Missouri, that tribunal decided that he was properly excluded from voting, he not having taken the prescribed oath. Montgomery Blair argued at length in favor of the petitioner, and was opposed by Senator Drake, of Missouri, whose argument was not concluded when the Court adjourned.

NOMINATIONS BY THE PRESIDENT.

The following nominations were sent to the Senate to-day:

General Giles A. Smith to be Second Assistant Postmaster-General; Moses H. Grinnell to be Collector of Customs at New-York; Simon J. Stine to be Collector of Internal Revenue for the Tenth District of Pennsylvania; Adam H. Schuster to be Collector of Internal Revenue for the Sixth District of Missouri; P. G. Watmough to be Collector of Customs at Cuyahoga, Ohio, and the following to be Postmasters: Albert Hatch, at Windsor, Vt.; John R. Dodson, at Phœnixville, Penn.; Jesse Mears, at Bristol, Penn.; Charles T. Sayle, Troy, Penn.; Philip Hoerr, Buchanan, Penn.; Wm. G. Price, Chester, Penn.; Harvey G. Baker, Geneseo, N. Y.; N. G. Smith, Flemington, N. J.; John D. Clevinger, Mount Holly, N. J.; James Furman, Bordentown, N. J.; Richard H. Fountain, Mishawaka, Ind.; J. G. McPheeters, Bloomington, Ind.; Benjamin Carter, Seymour, Ind.; Thomas P. Freynor, Council Bluffs, Iowa; F. M. Cassidy, Winterset, Iowa; H. J. Williams, Dubuque, Iowa; Julius Wagner, Indianola, Texas; Frederick A. Benson, Newton, Mass.; Wm. Price, Grenada, Miss.; Henry D. Shaffer, Canton, Iowa; James P. Bard, Columbia, Tenn.; John W. Williams, Nianah, Wis.; M. H. Ganing, Fort Atkinson, Mo.

FORTY-FIRST CONGRESS.

FIRST SESSION.

SENATE......Washington, March 24.

Mr. Conkling, of New-York, rose to a question of privilege, and said: Mr. President, I rise to a privileged question, and send to the Secretary the Washington Chronicle of yesterday, containing an alleged account of proceedings and debates in a caucus of Republican Senators had on Monday last. I have marked the portion relating to myself. The section read as follows:

> "Senators Grimes and Sprague supported the views of the Indiana Senator, Senator Edmunds replying that if gentlemen held such an opinion of the caucus they ought to withdraw from it.
> Senator Grimes replied, and said he certainly had no desire to stay. He had attended, some weeks since, a caucus called at the instance of Senator Conkling, and found nothing but wrangling over the same question that brought them together to-day. Then it was a call for a caucus which Senator Conkling ostentatiously announced was to settle finally and forever the Tenure-of-Office law."

It has never been my habit to ask attention to statements in newspapers or elsewhere personal to myself. My belief has always been that matters merely personal are not usually entitled to be urged upon the public consideration, and that individual injustice had better be endured than to be thrust into public discussions. I would not now, for the first time in my life, depart from the rule long ago prescribed for myself, and ask attention to the statement read, were it applicable only to myself personally. It is, however, of more significance than this. It charges me as a Senator with using language disrespectful of the State which honors me with a seat in this chamber. It charges me with an unwarrantable assumption, and with braving and defying the opinions and sentiments of the Legislature of New-York. Therefore I have called attention to the matter, that I may pronounce the whole statement without the slightest foundation. The whole passage read by the Secretary, in every essential part is untrue, as I take you, Mr. President, to witness, and every other Senator present at the Conference in question. Any statement in a public journal on such a subject is somewhat remarkable. A caucus like the consultations of a Court, a jury, or a committee is in its nature such as is supposed to forbid all those who take part in it, and, therefore, all those who can know what is said there, from making it public. It can hardly be supposed that any Senator has been guilty of even truly disclosing the debates held in the caucus on Monday last, and therefore it is not surprising that, relying upon guess work, reporters should fall into error. It is not remarkable that the New-York Times, a journal usually so careful and reliable in its news statements, and very creditably represented in Washington, as it, too, attempted to publish what it cannot be supposed to have known, should also have fallen into errors, which must at least amuse those who know how wide the account of the caucus telegraphed from Washington to that journal is from the truth.

THE TENURE-OF-OFFICE LAW.

Mr. Trumbull, from the Committee on the Judiciary, reported the bill to repeal the Tenure-of-Office act, with an amendment in the nature of a substitute as follows:

> "Strike out all after the enacting clause, and insert as follows: That the first and second sections of an act entitled 'An act regulating the tenure of certain civil offices,' passed March 2, 1869, be and the same is hereby repealed, and in lieu of said repealed sections, the following are hereby enacted:
> That every person holding any civil office to which he has been or hereafter may be appointed, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and who shall have become duly qualified to act therein, shall be entitled to hold such office during the term for which he shall have been appointed, unless sooner removed by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, or by the appointment, with the like advice and consent, of a successor in his place, except as herein otherwise provided.
> Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That during any recess of the Senate the President is hereby empowered, in his discretion, to suspend any civil officer appointed by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, except Judges of the United States Courts, until the end of the next session of the Senate, and to designate some suitable person, subject to be removed in his discretion by the resignation of another, to perform the duties of such suspended officer in the mean time, and such person so designated shall take the oaths and give the bonds required by law to be taken and given by the suspended officer, and shall, during the time he performs his duties, be entitled to the salary and emoluments of such officer, no part of which shall belong to the officer suspended. And it shall be the duty of the President, within thirty days after the commencement of each session of the Senate, except for any office which in his opinion ought not to be filled, to nominate persons to fill all vacancies in office which existed at the meeting of the Senate, whether temporarily filled or not, and also in the place of all officers suspended; and if the Senate during such session shall refuse to advise and consent to an appointment in place of any suspended officer, and shall also refuse by vote to assent to his suspension, then, and not otherwise, such officer at the end of the session shall be entitled to resume the possession of the office from which he was suspended, and afterward to discharge its duties and receive its emoluments, as though no such suspension had taken place.

Mr. Bayard moved to lay the report of the Committee on the table. Lost.

Mr. Davis moved to amend by striking out the report of the Committee, and inserting the bill passed by the House absolutely repealing the Tenure-of-Office act.

Mr. Trumbull said that as that bill had been struck out by the Senate in Committee of the Whole it was not now in order to replace it.

The President pro tem. (Mr. Anthony) decided that it was not in order.

Mr. Davis thought the Senate had a right to reverse the action of the Committee of the Whole.

The President asked whether the Senator from Kentucky desired to appeal from the decision of the chair.

Mr. Davis said no; he did not care to throw straws against a hurricane. [Laughter.]

Mr. Warner moved to lay the bill on the table and order it printed. There were Senators on the Democratic side who had not had any opportunity to consider the bill in this form, and, under the circumstances, he did not think it fair to press it.

Mr. Trumbull had no desire to do anything unfair, but as the objection of the Democratic Senators was to the substance, rather than the form of the Tenure-of-Office act, and as they would not be satisfied with anything short of its unconditional repeal, he saw no necessity for delay.

The motion to lay the bill on the table was lost, by a vote of 22 to 34.

Mr. Grimes thought this bill, if made a law, would tend to perpetuate at least, some of the evils caused by the existing Tenure-of-Office act, and, therefore, he could not vote for it.

Mr. Davis moved a substitute absolutely repealing the Tenure-of-Office act, but

The President decided that although in different words it was absolutely the same as the House bill, and therefore out of order.

Mr. Morton said that the bill reported by the Committee would remove all the objections on practical grounds to the Tenure-of-Office act by relieving the President from the obligation to give reasons for suspensions to office, and the Senate from the duty impossible of performance of considering the reasons in each case. It still reserved to the Senate the power of vetoing the President's removals by non-concurrence, which at the end of the session would reinstate the officer removed. But the President might immediately suspend him again, so that practically the veto power would amount to nothing. The report of the Committee preserved the shadow rather than the substance of the Tenure-of-Office act. It was merely a bad photograph of a dead body, therefore he did not feel called upon to argue against it, or to oppose it actively in any way, but he could not vote for it, because by preserving the veto power of the Senate it violated the theory which he held on the subject.

Mr. Harlan made an argument in favor of the existing law; he saw no reason why the President should have absolute control over Federal officers any more than State Governors have such control over State officers. It was only in an absolute Government that the Chief Executive officer should have arbitrary power to appoint to, and dismiss from office. The argument against the Tenure-of-Office act, because a removal under it would be disgraceful to the officer removed, was really, when properly viewed, an argument in favor of it. It was the sure disgrace consequent upon dismissal from the army or navy that made army and naval officers so much more faithful and efficient than civil officers, and if the same certainty of disgrace attended dismissal from the civil service, it would produce the same result.

Mr. Fowler made a general argument against the Tenure-of-Office act.

Mr. Ross made a similar argument. He had no word of apology for the maladministration of the last President, but he believed that the evils resulting from it had been aggravated by the operation of the Tenure-of-Office act.

Mr. Sprague followed. A few days ago he had expressed the opinion that the Senate, because of the preponderance in it of men of one profession, was not a body fit to exercise control over the President in appointing and removing public officers; but in expressing that opinion he had carefully avoided reference to any individual or individuals. The Senator from Nevada, however, (Mr. Nye,) had seen fit to reply by a personal attack upon himself, and had succeeded in getting on his side the laughter of the galleries, and of some of his fellow-Senators. This being so, he (Mr. Sprague) felt justified in addressing a few words to the people now in the galleries. They were representatives of the American people. He observed that they were better clothed than the masses; [laughter:] but whether their dress covered more virtue than might be found under less gaudy habiliments each would have to judge for himself. He did not wonder that the galleries laughed at his warning. The teaching of the past had educated them to make light of serious things, and had made them of a frivolous, thoughtless, senseless disposition. They reminded him of the idiotic inmate of a burning dwelling, who laughed at all warning and perished in the flames. He would, nevertheless, repeat his warning. The affairs of the country were being mismanaged and ruined by men of the class he had spoken of before. The people of England would not tolerate such a state of things. The men who controlled the affairs of England, Gladstone and Disraeli, were not lawyers; they were men of wider culture, with the instincts of statesmen, fit to control the destinies of a great nation. He had felt deeply interested in the success of the Republican Party in the past, and had contributed to it, he thought, as much in character and a good deal more in money than other Senators; indeed he believed that his contribution of the latter kind had been greater than those of all the other Senators combined. When the war broke upon the people without warning and found them unprepared, he had been among the first to rush to the support of the Government; but now there was a great danger pending and he felt it his duty to warn the people of it. He read a long account of the character and career of the notorious Judge Jeffreys, and of the condition of England in his time, which, he said, was very like our condition at the present time. England, at that time, was just after a revolution, and the country was thrown under the control of despotic power, and Jeffreys was the eager instrument. Four years ago this country had come out of a great civil war. Since that time the great work of Congress had been, or should have been, to restore harmony and prosperity to the country. How had that work been carried on? Is there, he asked, peace at the South? Is there prosperity or contentment among the people there? Are they not rather in a state of chronic revolution? Is there justice in the land? Who that is a poor man dare attack one that is rich in any Court in this land? Is there protection for the rights or liberties of the citizen in this boasted land of freedom? The immigration to this country had fallen off 30,000 during the last year, and it would continue to fall off, because the industry and agriculture of the country were so prostrated at the West that immigrants could not find remunerative employment; and if they went to farm in the West they could not sell their products for enough to supply them with the necessaries of life. Whenever any one in the Senate or elsewhere asked the reason of the depression of our commerce and manufactures, he was sure to meet with the answer that it was owing to the fact that we were not paying specie; but the real reason was that the legislation and the administration of the Government were so shaped as to encourage capital to speculate upon every industrial occupation in the country. If this course were to be continued, in less than five years there would be a clamor for a tariff to keep out foreign cotton, but great as was the mismanagement of our national affairs in every department, the greatest abuses were in our financial policy. That policy was directed and controlled by the bankers. They no doubt gave as good advice as they could; but experience had always shown that dealers in money know little or nothing about the relations of money to other occupations and interests. The bearing of all this upon the pending bill was this: If the legislators of the country had done their own work so badly, how could they dare to assume the powers and duties of the Executive also? He had intended to say a few words about the relations between himself and certain other Senators, by way of showing the unfitness of the Senate to exercise a revisory power over the acts of the President, but he would reserve them for another occasion. He must, however, before closing, say a word about the social condition of the country, which he thought was quite as bad as the financial condition. The rich were striving to be richer, and the poor were struggling to imitate the rich, and in this struggle virtue was lost. He knew something of the character of the people of other countries, and he firmly stated that there were less virtue and morality in American society to-day than in any other civilized society on the face of the earth. The prevailing demoralization was frightful. What mother could send her son out into the world with any confidence that he would be able to resist the temptresses that would surround him? What husband could close his door? [Laughter.] The country was on the brink of a precipice, and unless the people could be roused from their apathy all was lost. He had wished for and aided in the election of General Grant to the Presidency, because he believed that he (President Grant) had not been contaminated by the politicians, and had the capacity required to see through and defeat their machinations. He had listened to the inaugural address with intense interest, and had been pleased by the President's expression of his purpose to be independent in the discharge of his official duties, but when he heard the passage asserting the sacredness of the public debt he had gone away disheartened and sorrowful, because it had shown him that the canker that possessed the American body politic had got possession of the President also. Still, he was not without hope. He hoped that the President would yet discover the great error into which bad advisers had led him, and would turn away from this policy as from a charnel-house. With an interesting biographical sketch of himself, Mr. Sprague finished his speech.

The report of the Committee was then adopted as a substitute for the pending bill by the following vote:

Yeas—Messrs. Abbott, Anthony, Boreman, Brownlow, Buckingham, Carpenter, Cattell, Chandler, Conkling, Cragin, Drake, Edmunds, Ferry, Gilbert, Hamlin, Harlan, Harris, Howard, Kellogg, Morrill, Osborn, Patterson, Pratt, Ramsey, Rice, Sawyer, Schurz, Scott, Spencer, Stewart, Sumner, Tipton, Trumbull, Willey, Williams, Wilson, Yates—37.

Nays—Messrs. Bayard, Casserly, Davis, Fessenden, Fowler, Grimes, McCreery, McDonald, Norton, Ross, Sprague, Stockton, Thurman, Vickers, Warner—15.

Mr. Trumbull briefly explained the bill as reported from the Judiciary Committee. It was designed, he said, to remove any obstacle which the Tenure-of-Office act unchanged might throw in the way of the President, in reforming the public service, and at the same time to preserve the principle which some Senators thought a sound constitutional principle underlying the Tenure-of-Office act. The Senator from Indiana had said that the power reserved to the Senate by this bill would amount to nothing, because if the Senate refused to confirm the suspension of an officer and thereby reinstate him, the President might suspend him again immediately after the adjournment of the Senate. He would ask that Senator whether he had not confidence in the President to believe that he would act according to the spirit of the law. He (Trumbull) had such confidence, and had no fear whatever that the President would seek to evade the law in any way.

Mr. Morton thought the Chairman of the Judiciary Committee (Mr. Trumbull) ought to have explained the bill earlier in the debate, as very few Senators yet understood its provisions. He briefly criticised the bill, and denied that it preserved the principle underlying the Tenure-of-Office act.

The bill was then passed.

The Senate, at 5:35, went into Executive Session, and soon after adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. Ward presented a petition of the citizens of Elmira, N. Y., to authorize the furnishing of artificial limbs to disabled soldiers once in five years.

On motion of Mr. Dawes, the House Committee on the Civil Service Bill was ordered to be continued.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. Whittemore introduced a bill to regulate the manner of applying to Congress for the removal of political disabilities. Referred to the Reconstruction Committee.

Mr. Palmer introduced a bill concerning the United States District Court in Iowa. Referred to the Judiciary Committee. Also, a bill to establish a port of entry at Council Bluffs, Iowa. Referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. Paine introduced a bill to enforce the third section of the fourteenth article of the Amendment to the Constitution. Referred to the Reconstruction Committee.

> It provides that every person who is ineligible to office under that section, and who holds or attempts to hold office in any State or Territory, and every civil or military officer who has authority to remove such person and does not do it, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be liable to a fine of not less than $500 nor more than $5,000, and imprisonment not more than five years nor less than sixty days.

Mr. Axtell introduced a bill amendatory of the act of 27th July, 1868, to protect the rights of actual settlers. Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. Wilson, of Minnesota, introduced a bill in reference to the lands of the Minnesota State University. Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. Niblack introduced a bill to equalize the bounties of soldiers, sailors and marines. Referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. Clarke introduced a joint resolution to enable actual settlers on the Cherokee strip of lands in Kansas to purchase their lands. Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

TAKING THE CENSUS.

Mr. Garfield, from the Select Committee on the Census, reported a bill for taking the ninth and subsequent censuses. Ordered to be printed and recommitted. Mr. Garfield gave notice that he would call it up for action next Tuesday.

The following is a synopsis of the bill:

> The bill establishes a Census Bureau in the Department of the Interior, the head of which is to be appointed by the President. An assistant Superintendent is to be appointed by the Secretary of the Interior for each Congressional District and Territory. The District Superintendents are to employ all the subordinates they need for taking the census. The census is to be taken as of the first of April 1870. The whole work is to be done in two months, and the final publication made and the Bureau closed by the 1st of May, 1872. The Secretary of the Interior, Attorney-General and Census Commissioner are to prepare and perfect schedules and tables to lay before Congress on the first Monday of December next. When the census is taken, the population of each State is to be divided by 150,000, and the quotient will give the number of Representatives to which the State is entitled in Congress. This is expected to give 270 members in the House. The basis of representation hereafter is to be fixed at one member for every 170,000 of the population.

THE JUNCTION RAILROAD COMPANY.

The Senate bill to incorporate the National Junction Railroad Company, was taken from the Speaker's table.

Mr. Welker, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, reported various amendments to the bill, one of them being to strike out the authority to make a tunnel under the Georgetown College. Adopted.

Mr. Swann offered an amendment requiring bridges or tunnels of sufficient height or depth at the crossings of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He argued in support of his amendment.

The amendment was opposed by Messrs. Welker, Cook and Dickey, and supported by Messrs. Twichell and O'Neill. Finally the previous question was demanded and seconded. The amendment offered by Mr. Swann was rejected and the bill passed.

PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT FOR MISSISSIPPI.

Mr. Butler, of Massachusetts, from the Committee on Reconstruction, reported a bill for the organization of a provisional government for the State of Mississippi.

> It authorizes the reassembling forthwith, on the call of the President, of the Constitutional Convention heretofore elected under the act of March 2, 1867. If the President decline to issue the call within thirty days, the Commanding General of the Fourth Military District is to summon the Convention by proclamation. The Convention is empowered to appoint a Provisional Governor; to authorize him to remove and appoint Registrars and Judges of Elections, and to provide for forwarding the votes on the Constitution to the Provisional Governor, to be counted in his presence and that of the General Commanding the Military Division of the Mississippi, &c.
> The Convention shall not continue in session for more than sixty days, and the Constitution framed by it shall be submitted to the people within ninety days after adjournment. The districts unrepresented at the time of the last adjournment shall proceed immediately to elect delegates, under the direction of the Commanding-General. Any one or more provisions may be submitted to a separate vote. The ordinances that may be passed by the Convention shall be in force until disapproved by Congress, or until the State shall have adopted a Constitution, and it shall have been approved by Congress. The right of trial by jury shall not be taken away by this act. The military commander shall, on the requisition of the Provisional Governor, give aid to the officers of the Provisional Government in preserving the peace, &c. The Provisional Governor may remove officials in the State, and appoint their successors, &c., subject, however, to the orders and directions of the President of the United States, who may remove the Provisional Governor, and appoint his successor.

Mr. Beck moved to amend by striking out the sentence authoring the Convention to appoint a Provisional Governor, so as to leave the power with the President of the United States.

Mr. Farnsworth gave notice that he would move to postpone the consideration of the bill until the next session.

Mr. Butler expressed his acknowledgment for the confidence in the President expressed by the amendment of Mr. Beck, and said he could not help admiring the new-born zeal of States' Rights men—men who now wished State officers to be appointed by Federal authority rather than by the people of the State. The Committee, however, thought that the appointment should be by the President of the Convention. He proceeded to explain and advocate the various provisions of the bill. The bill, he said, had been reported from the Committee with great unanimity; it had been sanctioned by the Committee of the last House; it had been carefully and thoroughly considered. If the House thought it best to have any reconstruction in Mississippi, he hoped it would stand by the bill.

Mr. Beck addressed the House for an hour in favor of the amendment offered by him. He declared that the last Convention of Mississippi had rendered itself infamous, and was utterly unfit to be the depository of power. He contended that the President of the United States having no animosities to gratify, and being presumed to desire the restoration of good relations with the whole country, would appoint a Provisional Governor, who would see that at least there was a fair election. He urged this not from any new-born zeal for the Federal authority, but as a choice of evils. The Democratic minority did not look to any party advantage in this; they did not expect the President to appoint any Democrat to such an office, but they believed that the President would do justice, and see that fair men were appointed and fair elections held. Therefore, they were opposed to depriving the President of powers which he now had.

Mr. Lawrence, of Ohio, asked what powers this bill took from the President?

Mr. Beck replied that the President now had the power under all the Reconstruction laws to appoint Provisional Governors and military officers, who had the authority to appoint Registrars and Judges of Elections. By this bill the President was deprived of this power, and the military commandant was deprived of all power. All that he could do was to aid the Provisional Governor in carrying out his orders, however infamous they might be.

Mr. Beck proceeded to give illustrations of the unworthiness of the last Mississippi Convention, which this bill proposed to reconvene. Having done so at considerable length, he asked whether it was wonderful that the white men of Mississippi voted against the Constitution. Was it wonderful that the decent negroes of Mississippi voted against it, as they had? Was it not wonderful that any set of gentlemen would now seek to restore power to such a convention without even giving to the President of the United States the right to see that the next election was fairly held? That was the amazing proposition.

Mr. Lawrence replied to the comments of Mr. Beck, upon depriving the President of the power to appoint a Provisional Governor for Mississippi, and argued that no such power was vested in the President. President Johnson had undertaken to exercise the power of appointing Provisional Governors, but such action on his part had never received any validity from Congress, and no act conferring such a power on the President had ever been passed by Congress. That power had been conferred by the Reconstruction acts on the military commanders in the South and on the General of the Army. This bill, therefore, took no power from the President; it merely transferred from the military authorities to the Convention the power to appoint a Provisional Governor for Mississippi.

Mr. Beck suggested that Mr. Lincoln had exercised the same power in the appointment of Mr. Johnson.

Mr. Lawrence replied that that was not so. Mr. Johnson had been appointed Military Governor of Tennessee, which was a very different thing from a Provisional Governor. The one exercised martial powers, the other civil powers.

Mr. Wood obtained the floor to oppose the bill, but yielded to a motion to adjourn, and thereupon the House, at 3:45 o'clock, adjourned.

The Hoosac Tunnel.—By the report of the Commissioners of the Troy and Greenfield Railroad and Hoosac Tunnel, submitted to the Legislature of Massachusetts on Monday, it appears that up to Feb. 1 the total length of the tunnel bored was 9,338 feet, leaving to be bored 15,693 feet. The length of the east end heading is now 5,282 feet; of the east end enlargement 2,500 feet; of the west end heading 4,056 feet; of the brick arch 931 feet, of the whole length of the central shaft (1,030 feet), 583 feet have been finished, leaving 447 feet to be completed.

Forcible Proclamation of Captain-General Dulce—Capture of the Brig Mary Lowell.

Havana, Wednesday, March 24.

Captain-General Dulce has issued a proclamation declaring that all vessels captured in Spanish waters, or in the seas near this island, with men, arms and munitions of war on board, will be treated as pirates, and adjudged according to the articles of war, irrespective of their points of departure or destination.

The Spanish man-of-war Blasco de Garay has brought to this port the brig Mary Lowell, from Nuevitas, whither she was taken by the Andalusia after her capture. The Andalusia subsequently left Nuevitas on a cruise among the islands to intercept rebel expeditions. The Commander of the Andalusia, in a communication to the Captain-General, giving an account of the capture of the brig, affirms that he acted carefully in accordance with international law. The value of the cargo of the prize brig Mary Lowell is estimated at $200,000. It consists of cannon, small arms, ammunition and other war material. The expedition was commanded by Castellano.

The Spanish war steamer Gaudiana arrived to-day from Nassau. She left another Spanish war vessel to watch the waters of Nassau.

A detachment of troops under the command of General Escalante has gone to Cienfuegos. Additional troops have also been sent to Cardenas, Sagua la Grande and Remedios.

A meeting of the planters was held at the Palace to-night at the request of General Dulce, to discuss and plan a system of rural police to be established throughout the island for the protection of the plantations.

News has been received of a heavy battle between the Government troops and insurgents in the Central Department, at some point on the road from Remedios to Moron. The Spanish forces were commanded by General Puello. No complete report of the battle has been made public; not even the result is known; but the Spaniards claim that 800 rebels were killed.

After reviewing former legislation enlarging the rights and liberties of the workingmen of France, he said he believed that the law he now proposed would place them in their proper position, tend to disarm hatred and cause force to give way to right.

The Emperor's project was adopted by the Council, and the law will be submitted to the Corps Legislatif at an early day.

OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Defence of the Present System—Reply to an Ex-School Commissioner.

NEW-YORK, Tuesday, March 23, 1869.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The conspirators against the School System are evidently driven to desperate measures. With little in the way of character to lose, they are naturally reckless in regard to the truth of the assertions they make, so long as they can succeed in shaking the confidence of the people in the management of the schools. Trained in all the bold tricks and desperate expedients which have made them worthy managers of the Ring, they are playing a bold game to secure control of the expenditure of the $3,000,000 which their success in other departments of the City expenses, has led them to look upon as their right.

The article which appeared in these columns, it will be seen from the following analysis, is a tissue of bold and deliberate misstatements, evidently intended to mislead. It is a full-fledged specimen of the kind of morality of an organization which thus seeks to complete its ownership of the City Government. Already its partial mastery has rendered us a byword and a reproach throughout the civilized world. What would it not become if the education of our children should pass into its hands?

First, in regard to the total expenses: It was unanswerably shown, in the recent address of the President of the Board, that the expenses of 1869, when compared with those of 1860, were as follows:

1869	$3,150,000
Excess of 1869 over 1860	$1,872,000

That the increase in the attendance of pupils within this interval was over 76 per cent.; that the addition of this proportionate amount to the expenses of 1860 would have raised the outlay to $2,250,000. This would leave out all the effects of the war upon prices. Who does not know what these have been? Who would not be glad to affirm that his expenditures have not been increased more than 50 per cent. since the breaking out of the war? Add 50 per cent. to the $2,250,000. The Board has never asked for $3,375,000, although by law entitled to draw for nearly $3,500,000 for 1869. This is deliberately called extravagance and unlimited expenditure, and not one hint given that the increase had just causes.

Salaries of teachers, cost of supplies, &c., are dismissed as "items of necessity, though doubtless extravagant in amount." Yet no one knew better than the writer of the article referred to, that the salaries of our teachers were disgracefully low before the war, and that the enormous taxation and peculation in our ring-ridden City, even now while these teachers are not yet directly subjected to the extortions which afflict the ring departments of the City Government, leaves little enough of their hard-earned salaries for their real support.

It is also asserted that $65,000 are expended for the mere clerical duties. It must be remembered that there are in these schools, during the year, at least one-fourth of a million pupils, with an average attendance of nearly half that number. There are several classes of Superintendents necessary. The Superintendent of Schools and his five assistants and one clerk, whose positions are well known to be no sinecures, require very nearly $20,000 of the $65,000. The Superintendent of Buildings and Repairs, with his assistant, including the Engineer of the Board, and other essential help in this department, require $13,500 of the remainder. The duties of these officers call for constant labor, and are in no sense clerical. The Finance Department, the Depository, and the other duties which are "merely clerical," each must have a responsible head and more or less of indispensable assistance. Besides these there are the Inspector of Fuel and the Janitor of the Hall. All of these are included in the $65,000. How does this agree with the statement that "the whole duties consist in paying salaries and keeping a record of the proceedings of the Commissioners, who meet twice a month!" How fair is this statement of the "Ex-Commissioner," who certainly knows the truth, whatever he may state as such? For what purpose was such an assertion made? The item of $215,000 for incidental expenses of Ward Schools is then attacked in precisely the same spirit. The Ex-Commissioner says in this connection, "I must say that the waste fund under the direction of the managers of the Board of Education is a very handsome sum, and it is not remarkable that those who have managed it, coming from the humblest positions, without means, are now men of wealth and property influence." What is the unavoidable impression made by such a statement, if believed? What are the facts? The chief subordinate items of this $215,000, they called the waste fund, were for 1868: Fuel, $80,000; gas for evening schools, trustees' meeting-rooms, and janitor's apartments, amounting to $16,000; repairs of all kinds, $76.005; furniture, $6,000; supplies for trustees' room, $700; the expenses of the annual cleaning of all the schools, $12,500; printing of all kinds for all these ward schools, $2,200; and salaries of Clerks of Local Boards, $5,400—leaving about $15,000 for sundry small items and for a draft which is always made before the close of the year from some other account which may unavoidably overrun its apportionment, usually teachers' salaries. What shall we say of a man who knows all these things, and then deliberately makes a public statement leading every one who knows no better to think that this large sum of over $200,000 is annually stolen and divided among the thieves? How thankful the community should be that he is now only an Ex-Commissioner.

The amount of $60,000 estimated this year for the incidental expenses of the Board, is paraded as a matter worthy of suspicion, the impression being given that the amount is designed to cover outlays which it is not "agreeable" to make known. Now, the fact is, that the entire amount expended in 1868, for incidental expenses, was $48,465, and the items included in this are stationery, express charges, cleaning, printing and binding, (necessarily a large item,) repairs to the hall of the Board, advertising, engraving plans for new buildings, legal services, fuel, gas, &c. There is also included in the amount the expense of the tea-table—about $1,200—on which the Ex-Commissioner remarks that "while the cost is comparatively not large, it is unwarranted by law." The statute, however, under which the Board is organized provides (section 30) that "the Commissioners shall receive their actual and reasonable expenses while attending to the duties of their office." Now, in order to attend the meetings of the Board at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, the members are obliged to forego the comfort of dinner at their homes, and would be compelled to purchase refreshments, if the simple provision of a cup of tea or coffee and a few sandwiches were not provided at the hall; and since their services are rendered gratuitously, it is simply contemptible to make this trivial expense a matter of objection. The statement that it is not authorized by law, it will be seen, is not true. We wonder whether the Ex-Commissioner, when partaking of his coffee and sandwiches, was duly conscious of the abuse in which he was participating.

The impression is sought to be made that the proceedings of the Board are kept secret, whereas everything is done to give them the widest publicity. The meetings of the Board are thrown open to the public, the journal of its proceeding is publicly read, printed and circulated, and reporters for the various daily papers are always in attendance, and take such minutes of the proceedings as they deem proper. It is true these proceedings were formerly published in full in the Leader and Transcript, but as the expense of such publication was considerable, and as the other papers published the proceedings gratuitously, as a matter of public interest this was discontinued.

The impression is also given that the members of the Board, through an "intermediate agent,"—Messrs. BURNTON BROTHERS—derive a profit from the furnishing of books and other supplies. Such a result is impossible. Messrs. BURNTON BROTHERS can obtain the supply of no article, unless it is awarded to them as the lowest bidders, in competition with other contractors; and the fact is, that by means of such competition, the contracts are awarded to various persons, Messrs. BURNTON BROTHERS having only a part of them. Among the others are such respectable firms as Ivison, Phinney, Blakeman & Co., A. S. Barnes & Co., Harper & Brothers, D. Appleton & Co., Clark & Maynard, Sheldon & Co., &c., &c. If Messrs. BURNTON be an intermediate agent, these parties are also intermediate agents, since they supply articles on the same terms and precisely in the same way. It is true that the BURNTONS are not publishers, but the goods are supplied by them to the Board at as low a price as the publishers themselves would supply them—a fact the truth of which will, if necessary, be attested by any of the publishers referred to.

With regard to the "principal book" copyrighted by one of the Superintendents, the statement is a gross exaggeration, and is designed to create an entirely false impression. It is true, one of the Assistant Superintendents some years ago edited the Grammar then, and still in use in the schools, but he never had any copyright interest in it, nor derived any emolument whatever from its circulation. The same officer was the author of a small text-book, for which there is a very limited demand, and which was in use in the schools previous to his election. This book has been retained on the list by the Board during the last thirteen years. Two of the other Superintendents are also the authors of works on practical education, which the Board thought proper to place on the list of reference books for the use of teachers exclusively, and in no case to be purchased without their express requisition.

With regard to the supplying of pianos the imputation is utterly false. The Board of Education has never been concerned in the purchase of pianos, this being left exclusively to the local trustees, who, in making such purchases, are chiefly guided by the preference of the principals of the schools, and the special teachers who have charge of the musical instruction therein. Pianos are furnished by all the prominent makers, including STEINWAY, CHICKERING, RAVEN, WEBER and others. Instead of the average price being $400, this is the maximum price allowed by the Board to be paid, and generally it is less than the amount.

The statement with reference to the patent possessed by "an officer of the Clerk's Department," amounts simply to this: that during the debate which occurred at the last meeting of the Board, in regard to furnishing the new school building in the Ninth Ward, it was stated that a person employed for many years by the Public School Society, and subsequently by the Board as an architectural draughtsman, was interested in the proposed furniture, by having a patent-right upon some portion of it; whereupon, action was delayed and a committee was immediately appointed to investigate the facts. Does this prompt action of the Board indicate a wish to connive at any attempt to prevent a proper degree of competition in the supplying of furniture? But the proposed bill introduced by Mr. RICHMOND is to prove a panacea for all these startling evils and corruptions. It is a singular fact, however, that the language of the bill should be almost verbatim the same as that employed by the "Ring" managers in their organ, the Leader, in commenting on their failure to remove Mr. BOESE from the clerkship in January last. It is true that the names of twelve very respectable and entirely unexceptionable gentlemen are presented as the successors of the present Board; but when we find one series of names in one manifesto put forth by these designing politicians, and a quite different series in another, the conviction is inevitable that this is only a cunning but oft-used device, resorted to by these dark intriguers to throw dust into the people's eyes, while they, in fact, intend to put their own creatures in these responsible places. If they were sincere, why would they not have named these persons in the bill itself? Why leave the selections to be made by the Mayor, under the direction of the Tammany clique?

But in this connection the ex-Commissioner are evidently guilty of a singular inconsistency. While charging the members of the Board of Education with every species of fraud and peculation—while representing them as the mere tools of the Clerk of the Board and the Superintendent of Buildings, (who are said to be the "managers of the Board,") he yet selects four of these gentlemen as candidates for the new and improved Board. Mr. BRENNAN, who for five years has been the Chairman of the Committee on Supplies, and hence has had a controlling influence over this branch of the Board's expenditures, and who also has been for several years a member of the Finance Committee, and could not but be aware of these gross frauds if they had been committed: Mr. LARREMORE, the President of the present Board, who signs every warrant for the payment of money; Mr. NEILSON, who has served two terms as President of the Board, and is now one of its most active and influential members, and Mr. LEWIS, a recently elected member. Here are four gentlemen charged, in connection with their associates, with gross fraud and malversation, and yet selected by their public accuser as candidates for the new body which is to remove all the abuses charged. The names of these gentlemen, independently of the use thus made of them, constitute a sufficient guarantee that the charges thus recklessly and desperately made are utterly without foundation.

How shall we properly characterize such a tissue of falsehoods? Shocking under any circumstances, what are they when seeking to throw the control of the greater part of the youth of our City into such hands? The respectable names used are a blind that deceives no one. The animus of the attack is unmistakable, as well as its origin. The Clerk of the Board would not assist to retain a very incompetent female principal who happened to be a friend of one of the ring. He would not assist to levy assessments upon the teachers and other employes of the Board. He set the dangerous example of doing his duty to the sacred trust confided to him, instead of implicitly obeying the "ring." It was the unpardonable sin. It was two of them. Hence the recent campaign and the resultant defeat. The Board, mainly composed as they supposed of their own men, stood firmly by its faithful officer, and refused to submit to dictation. The "ring" would have a wider vengeance. The Board and Clerk and all shall be swept away, and the other desired ends attained. But there must be no hesitation now as to the means employed, however desperate. Public opinion must be manufactured while the Legislature is in session, and prompt action obtained during the alarm of the community. The $17,500 forged check must also at the same time be sprung, and statements made in connection with it having even more unshrinking contempt for facts and the truth than is displayed in the article referred to. But it cannot succeed. The people of this City are not fools. These men are too well known by the fruit of their doings. They will never be allowed to overthrow the present school system. The fact that they advocate a measure makes all true men, without respect to party, look upon it with suspicion. The people will never submit to have their faithful servants punished at the behest and for the interests of such men, and because of their faithfulness. An enlightened and honest Press will never willingly lend itself to overthrow the purest glory of our City. To it and the people the cause is committed. ANOTHER EX-COMMISSIONER.

The Wolff Mal-Practice Case—Verdict Against the Accused.

Coroner ROLLINS, yesterday, continued the inquest in the case of Mrs. MAGDALEN PHILIPPI, who, it is alleged, died from the effects of an abortion performed by Dr. GABRIEL J. WOLFF, of No. 251 East Tenth-street. The first witnesses examined were ELIZA WILLES and ELIZABETH PHILIPPI, whose testimony was very voluminous, being entirely corroborative of that of GEORGE PHILIPPI, and referring entirely to the same circumstances. Dr. RICHARD G. T. DIEFFENBACH, of No. 224 East Forty-eighth-street, who had attended the deceased, testified that he had been called to the patient only when she was very low, and when she could retain none of the remedies he administered. Dr. DIEFFENBACH described the condition and symptoms of the patient at length, but these details are necessarily omitted, as unfit for publication. Drs. JOHN BEACH and TERRY then read to the jury the results of the post-mortem examination they had made of the body of deceased, and concluded that she had died of metro-peritonitis, consequent upon an abortion. Coroner ROLLINS made a short but decisive review of the evidence, and gave the case to the jury. After a short absence, the jury returned, and gave a verdict that the deceased had come to her death by "metro-peritonitis, the result of an abortion, at the hands of GABRIEL J. WOLFF, on the 11th day of March, 1869." Upon the rendition of this verdict, Coroner ROLLINS committed the accused for trial, refusing to receive bail for his appearance.

Number of Fires in 1868.

The number of fires in this City in 1868 was 291, the buildings being classed as follows: Banks, 1; bakeries, 4; blacksmith shops, 2; carpenter shops, 4; coal-sheds, 3; dye-houses, 2; distilleries, 2; dwellings, 108; factories, 51; foundries, 2; hotels, 3; ice-shed, 1; lime-sheds, 2; lumber-yards, 2; machine shops, 1; plumber shop, 1; publishing-house, 1; railroad depots, 2; restaurants, 10; stables, 20; stores, 98; stores and dwellings, 22; smoke-houses, 3; theatres, 1; brick buildings, 264; frame buildings, 82; vessels, 5. Total, 291.

In his report, the Fire-Marshal says: "Several fires occurring in large buildings occupied by numerous parties engaged in the manufacture of various articles from wood, have been rendered more disastrous by the facility afforded for the spread of the flames, by means of wooden chute or slide, running from top to bottom of the building, and used to convey the shavings and rubbish from each floor to the cellar; these are invariably made of wood. As a means of greater protection, I beg leave to suggest that proper steps be taken by legislative action or otherwise, as may seem best, to compel the construction of brick chutes outside the building where practicable, open at the top like a chimney, and with an iron door opening on each floor."

The insurance on the buildings burned was $689,030; insurance on the stock, $2,018,946. Total insurance, $2,707,976. The loss on the buildings was $327,714; loss on the stock, $1,151,160. Total loss, $1,478,874. The most frequent cause of the fires was carelessness of the occupants, and the next cause was explosions of kerosene.

Fire Commissioners.

At the meeting of the Fire Commissioners yesterday, the Committee on Storage of Combustibles reported that they had removed the ten cases of nitro-glycerine seized on a yawl at Pier No. 1 East River, to the magazine of the Hazard Powder Company under the Palisades. A petition was received from the horsemen and ladder men of the department, asking for an increase of salary to $500 per year. It was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Kings County Improvements.

On Tuesday Mr. JACOBS introduced in the Assembly a bill heretofore adopted by the Supervisors of Kings County, providing for the appointment of Commissioners to lay out a plan for roads and streets in Kings County. The Supervisors of the towns of New Lotts, Flatbush, Flatlands, Gravesend and New-Utrecht in Kings County, shall meet at the Court-house, in Kings County, on the third Monday of May, 1869, and shall then and there appoint five Commissioners, one from each town, to lay out a plan for roads and streets in said town. Such Commissioners shall, respectively, be residents and freeholders of the towns for which they are elected. The Supervisors of said towns shall have power to fill any vacancies which may occur in said Commission. The bill, as it was sent to Albany, provided that the Supervisors of the five towns should be the Commissioners.

The Poultry Fair.

This exhibition, now being held under the auspices of the New-York Poultry Society, is really a display of domestic animals that reflects great credit on the ability of poultry-fanciers to produce a large variety of choice fowls and animals that are both exceedingly beautiful and eminently useful. Yesterday, all the arrangements in the great Skating Rink on Sixty-third-street were pronounced as complete as they could reasonably be made. The street cars on Third and Second avenues, which run directly past the Rink, are crowded with visitors on their way to and from the exhibition. Everything, thus far, has moved on harmoniously, and every one who visits the Rink with indifference, leaves the place wonderfully surprised and delighted at the sight of such a grand display of large and beautiful birds and useful animals. As the Rink was warm yesterday, and the weather delightfully pleasant, the birds of all kinds, and the different quadrupeds, appeared to their best advantage. Everything was wide awake and full of animation. In many parts of the Rink it was quite inconvenient getting a sight of some of the coops and animals, on account of the crowd of visitors.

As a visitor enters the Rink, the most discordant sounds fall upon his ear. At one time it would seem as if a horde of barking curs were holding a carnival. Now the hoarse crowing of a score of Cochins, Creve Cœurs, Black Spanish and other fowls, seems to swell above the confused noise. Now the noisy geese put in their deafening gabble, and the beautiful Muscovies and Black Coyuyas increase the confused noise. Occasionally the ear can catch the sound of cooing pigeons, of which there are more than fifty cages containing an extensive variety of most beautiful birds. Now the Guinea fowls make the spacious Rink echo with their incessant and monotonous "coquette, coquette." Finally the band strikes up some cheerful air, or some thrilling march, whereupon comparative harmony is restored for the moment.

It is not possible to convey to the reader at a distance a proper idea of what may be seen and heard, at this exhibition, which will prove both interesting and highly instructive. Such large and beautiful fowls furnish the most instructive commentary on the art of poultry-raising that can be produced. Every one who cherishes a fancy for domestic fowls should not fail to see such a collection of turkeys, geese, ducks, pigeons, rabbits, cats and dogs, from the very largest to the very smallest that has ever been gathered in any enclosure in America.

The Jewish Passover.

To-morrow evening at sundown, the feast of the Passover will be commenced by Israelites everywhere, in commemoration of their ancestors having remained intact, on the night when all the first-born in the families of their oppressors, the Egyptians, were smitten by the angel of death. The feast will continue eight days, during which time nothing but unleavened bread will be eaten. The first two and the last two days will be holy days, upon which business will be totally suspended by the faithful. On the first and second evenings various commemorative rites will be indulged in in every household, including the recital of Scriptural and legendary narratives, and familiar conversations on the subject of the deliverance. Appropriate psalms will also be chanted.

The Real Murder—No Stay of Proceedings as Yet.

In the case of REAL convicted of the murder of Officer SMEDICK, a writ of error has been granted by Judge BARNARD, but the Judge has refused to grant any stay of proceedings. Other Judges who have been applied to have also refused a stay of proceedings. The result is that the legal exceptions are to be argued from the General Term to the Court of Appeals, and should either be of the opinion that the trial was improperly conducted, REAL will be entitled to a new trial, but meanwhile he may be hung. The facts have also been laid before the Governor.

Truant School Children.

It may not be generally known that there are seven men of the Police force of this City detailed to look after truant children. These men visit our public schools daily, and receive from the teachers the names and residences of all absentees, and visit them at their homes to ascertain the cause of their absence from school. During the past year there were reported by the teachers to the truant officers 5,962 children, as truants from school. Of the whole number, 2,175 were reported as follows:

Withdrawn from school	543
Transferred to other schools	101
Kept at home by their parents	1,064
Kept at home on account of poverty	166
Kept at home by sickness	301
Total	2,175

Arrest of an Alleged Incendiary.

DANIEL REUTHER, who was arrested at the instance of Fire Marshal KEADY, on a charge of arson, in connection with the fire in the building in Carroll, between Bond and Nevins streets, on Tuesday morning, was taken before Justice CORNWELL yesterday. The testimony taken went to show that there was an abundant supply of kerosene on the floor of the saloon where the fire took place, that the prisoner was there, that he hesitated about opening the door to admit the Fire Marshal, and that his relations with PETER WEISER, the proprietor of the place, were of a very unsatisfactory character. The examination was adjourned until to-day.

Important Arrest.

Captain JOURDAN, of the Sixth Precinct, Tuesday evening arrested one WILLIAM GURNEY, who keeps a saloon known as the "Santa Claus," corner of Amity-place and Bleecker-street. On the 11th inst. the Grand Jury found an indictment against GURNEY upon a charge that on the 1st of January last he had purchased $10,000 worth of the bonds stolen from CAMBRELENG & PYNE, No. 14 Wall-street, for which, it is alleged, he paid $6,500. A bench warrant was issued for the accused, which was placed in the hands of Captain JOURDAN, who met GURNEY in a Bleecker-street car and took him in charge at the corner of Centre and Franklin streets.

The Police Commissioners and Captain Young.

The Police Commissioners yesterday adopted the following:

Resolved, That the counsel of this Board, (Brown, Hall, and Vanperdoel,) are hereby requested to report to this Board, at their earliest convenience, whether, in their opinion, this Board, as Trustees of the Metropolitan Police Life Insurance Fund, are entitled to recover from JOHN S. YOUNG, late a Police Captain, the money paid to and received by him as a reward for arresting in this City, and while such Police Captain, the prisoners who stole the bonds and other securities, then being the property of the First National Bank of New-Windsor, Md.

WEDNESDAY, March 24—P. M.

The speculative buyers of Gold for a rise in price, made their expected demonstration to-day to lock up the Cash Gold from the use of the Gold Room, or else force a large consideration to be paid for its daily employment in settlements at the Gold Exchange Bank. This consideration was made this forenoon one-sixteenth to one-eighth of one ⅌ cent. per day, but the principal sums called in for delivery by the Bull combination in the Room, were withdrawn and hypothecated, causing in turn an extra demand for Money, which was rather severely felt throughout the Street, as well as at Bank, before 3 o'clock. As a rule, most of the Banks have not been willing lenders to the Brokers, on call, since the first of March, because of the wants of their country corresponding Banks and of their Mercantile dealers here for discount accommodations. We noticed in the course of our inquiries yesterday, that Money was reported closer at Bank than among private lenders on the Street. To-day the plea of scarcity is more general, and 7 ⅌ cent. Gold Interest was spoken in some cases near the close of the day. This is the more notable as there is less than the usual demand from the heavy dealers in the Public Funds, so that the extra pressure would seem to have grown out of the movement to lock up Gold, and to the somewhat extraordinary changes in the Railway speculation since yesterday morning.

The sales of Gold scarcely responded to the reported difficulty of commanding Gold for cash delivery. The price was forced up to 131⅝@131½ ⅌ cent. from 131⅛ last night, but this change was too slight to exercise the parties short on the market; the whole movement was something too artificial, and the Foreign Exchanges too cheap and depressed to authorize a sensation in the upward direction. The temporary squeeze in the Cash Gold caused increased dullness in Bills on London at 108⅜@108¼ ⅌ cent.

The recent negotiations in London and New-York for Messrs. E. W. CLARK & Co. and Mr. JAY COOKE, of Philadelphia, for account of the Camden and Amboy Road and the new Lake Superior Road have, in connection with the usual mercantile and manufacturing transactions between the two cities, thrown the Bank balances here in favor of Philadelphia. Drafts were scarce yesterday on both Boston and Philadelphia. To-day we learn that a million of dollars in Bank and Greenback Notes were sent to the last named city.

The Public Funds throughout the day showed more steadiness than at the close of Tuesday's market on all the 5-20s, and singular to say on a tight Money market there was a borrowing demand for the use of 1862s and 1867s to make the deliveries of the day.

The Gold Room gave way after regular 'Change hours to 131⅛@131¼ ⅌ cent. It is not believed that the proposed prepayment of Gold Interest on the Public Debt will materially relieve the scarcity of the Cash Gold while the daily Customs receipts continue, as at present, larger than any probable amount of coupons which may be presented in the next five weeks in advance of regular maturity on the first of May. The hope is indulged, however, that the Secretary of the Treasury, on a review of the whole situation of his accumulating surplus of Gold, will adopt the further step of advertising for the surrender of $5,000,000 or $10,000,000 at a time of United States Gold-bearing Bonds in exchange for Gold.

The excitement in the Railway speculation continued to-day, the Market, as on Tuesday, turning mainly on New-York Central, which advanced after our latest report last night to 164 ⅌ cent., falling back early this forenoon to 161 ⅌ cent., again advancing to 163½ ⅌ cent., and again falling back to 160½ ⅌ cent. This last change was on the announcement that after the Company had paid to-day nearly one-half the 4 ⅌ cent. Dividend on the Interest Certificates attached to the Stock, (equal to $3 20 per share on the Stock,) a second injunction had been sued out before Judge INGRAHAM, and served at 1:30 P. M. to restrain further payments. The previous proceedings had been discussed by the plaintiff JENCKS, and the payment of the dividend had just been advertised when some young broker in Wall-street, probably short of the stock, made this new case, and the consequence will, of course, be some further delay in the payment of Dividends on about one-half the Certificates which had not been presented when the paper was served on the Union Trust Company. There is scarcely a doubt, however, that the new proceeding will be vacated at an early day. The affidavit upon which the preliminary injunction was granted, is exceedingly frivolous in its whole tenor, besides being wholly reckless in its assertions.

After the late Boards broke up the following quotations were made as compared with Tuesday night, after the heaviest transactions in New-York Central, chiefly in the Long Room and at the Open Board of Brokers, which we have had to report in any single Stock for several months. There is not much to remark of special interest in the other New-York and Western Roads, but the general appearance of the market was firm, and the advices from the West of the Spring traffic very encouraging. Should the excitement in New-York Central, which has, in a large measure, influenced the speculation yesterday and to-day, show some abatement to-morrow, the general list may possibly turn upon the look of the Money market. Gold left off weak and Exchange dull:

As touching the difference of 2@2½ ⅌ cent. made to-day in favor of the Common Stock of the Hannibal and St. Joseph Company over the Preferred Stock, at the Stock Exchange, we have to remark that a report reaches us that the $3,000,000 Bonds of the State of Missouri, originally loaned to the Company, and upon which they have uniformly paid the interest at the Bank of Commerce, have been in a large measure bought up for account of the Company, and are to be capitalized and the new Stock distributed to the common shareholders at par.

The consolidated Lake Shore Railway Company (Cleveland and Toledo, and Cleveland, Painesville and Ashtabula Roads) have declared an extra dividend of 10 ⅌ cent. in the 30 years 7 ⅌ cent. Bonds of the Company—supposed to be preliminary to a general equalization of interests from Buffalo to Toledo, if not from Buffalo to Chicago viâ Michigan Southern Road. These combinations have for some time past been privately discussed between the parties, and the delay in their accomplishment may have arisen (we speak from street surmise) from the wish of the Michigan Southern Company to put their own stock in at its par value. The annual meeting of this Company is to be held at Toledo on the last Wednesday in April.

The following extract from the late report of GEO. W. CASS, President of the Pittsburg and Fort Wayne Railroad, gives some interesting and authoritative statements as to recent Western combinations:

"The last annual report explained the terms and object of the lease of the St. Louis, Alton and Terre Haute Railroad to the Indianapolis and St. Louis Railroad Company, and the interest which this Company held therein, as also the failure of the original plan by reason of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company having withdrawn from the arrangement, and the hope was expressed that the last-named Company might yet harmonize its interest with the remaining parties as originally intended. This hope has not been realized, but, as stated above, that Company is now actively engaged in the building of a parallel line, and as no satisfactory arrangement of a permanent character can be made with the Terre Haute and Indianapolis Railroad Company, which is the owner of one-fifth of the new road building from Terre Haute to St. Louis, viâ Vandalia, for the use of their road, no alternative remains but for the Indianapolis and St. Louis Railroad Company to build a parallel road from Indianapolis to Terre Haute. The surveys, location and estimates have been completed, bids for the work received, and contracts in part awarded. To aid in the construction your Board has authorized the President to subscribe for 6,000 shares ($50 each) of the capital stock of the Company. The Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Bellefontaine Railroad Company has subscribed for a like amount, and the necessary financial arrangements have been made to furnish all the money necessary to complete the road, which, with proper efforts, can be done this year. When completed, the whole line from Crestline to St. Louis (460 miles) will pass under the management of the Indianapolis and St. Louis Railroad Company, of which this Company will be the owners of half the share capital, and have an equal voice in the management of the road."

The Illinois Central Company report a traffic gain of $116,000 in the first two weeks of March, over the corresponding weeks last season.

The Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Company have declared their usual Quarterly Dividend of 2½ ⅌ cent., payable on 26th April; transfers to close April 12, to reopen on the 27th.

INDIANAPOLIS AND VINCENNES RAILROAD COMPANY

First Mortgage Forty-year Bonds,

Interest Seven Per Cent. per Annum,

Payable February and August, in the City of New-York. The Principal and Interest of said Bonds guaranteed, jointly and severally, by

THE INDIANAPOLIS, CINCINNATI AND LAFAYETTE RAILROAD CO.

THE PITTSBURG, CINCINNATI AND ST. LOUIS RAILWAY CO.

THE COLUMBUS, CHICAGO AND INDIANA CENTRAL RAILWAY CO.;

The latter guarantee being indorsed by the Pennsylvania Central Railroad Co.

Issue restricted by law to $1,700,000 on the entire road, which is equal to about $15,000 per mile. This road is now approaching its completion; it traverses a rich and populous district in the State of Indiana, and will soon constitute an important link in the Trunk Line, extending from the Atlantic cities to the Southwest, via Cairo.

The intrinsic value of the road itself, combined with the guarantee of four other important railroad companies, one of which ranks financially among the strongest railroad corporations in the world, render these bonds among the safest investments on the market.

We confidently recommend them as a most desirable security for parties investing for themselves or in trust for others.

Also, Shares in the Capital Stock of said Railway Company, on which Six per Cent. per annum and one half the net earnings of the road, in excess of that amount, is guaranteed to the holders in perpetuity by the same railroad corporations.

A limited quantity of these choice securities are offered for sale on favorable terms by

NEWS OF THE DAY.

EUROPE.

It is reported in London that the Fenian General Halpin will shortly be released.

The Emperor Napoleon, at the last Council of the Ministers, introduced a bill to abolish the whole system of workmen's registers. The Ministers agreed to the bill, and will present it to the Corps Legislatif. The Emperor expressed himself satisfied with the progressive measures of the past years, and desired to promote the condition of workmen.

The steamship Westphalia, from Hamburg March 11 and Havre March 13, arrived at this port yesterday. We are indebted to the Purser for the delivery of our letters and newspaper packages.

CUBA.

Captain-General Dulce has issued a proclamation wherein he declares that all vessels captured in Spanish waters or in the seas near the Island, with men or munitions of war on board, will be treated as pirates, and adjudged according to the articles of war, irrespective of their points of departure or destination. The Spanish man-of-war Blasco de Garey has arrived at Havana with the brig Mary Lowell in tow, from Nuevitas, where she had been taken by the Anedelusia. The Captain of the latter vessel has addressed a communication to the Captain-General, giving a detailed account of the capture of the brig. The Mary Lowell's cargo is estimated at $200,000.

SOUTH AMERICA.

President Lopez was collecting his scattered forces at the mouth of the Tebiquary, and detachments of the Paraguayan army were in the environs of Asuncion, according to late news received in Paris.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, yesterday, Senator Conkling denied having used, in the caucus on the Tenure-of-Office law, certain language of a personal nature which had been attributed to him by some of the newspapers, and intimated that the correspondents had drawn on their imaginations for their facts. Mr. Grimes made a similar disavowal. Mr. Trumbull, from the Judiciary Committee, reported the bill providing for the repeal of the Tenure-of-Office law, with an amendment in the nature of a substitute. It gives the President power to remove Cabinet and other civil officers during the session of the Senate without giving reasons, provided the Senate fill the vacancies; and, during the recess of the Senate, the President may suspend and appoint to office until the end of the next session. Within thirty days after the commencement of the session he shall report these suspensions to the Senate, and if that body shall by a direct affirmative vote refuse to concur, then the suspended officer shall be reinstated. If the matter be simply passed over, the officer shall not be reinstated. Mr. Bayard moved to lay it on the table, but the motion was, after some debate, rejected—yeas 22, nays 24. Further discussion ensued, which was generally participated in. The bill was then passed, and the Senate adjourned.

In the House, Mr. Paine introduced a bill to enforce the provisions of the Reconstruction laws, which subjects to fine and imprisonment officers of the Government who fail to remove from office persons who are disqualified by the Reconstruction laws. A number of bills of minor importance were introduced and referred to Committees. The bill to incorporate the National Junction Railroad Company was taken from the Speaker's table, and, after some debate, was passed. Mr. Butler, from the Committee on Reconstruction, reported a bill for the organization of a Provisional Government for the State of Mississippi. It authorizes the President to reconvene the late Constitutional Convention, and empowers that body to appoint a Governer. The Convention is to adopt and submit to the people a new Constitution, and the ordinances so adopted shall be in force until disapproved by Congress. The Provisional Governor is authorized to remove State Officers and appoint their successors. Mr. Beck moved to amend, vesting the power to appoint a Governor in the President instead of the Convention. He made a lengthy speech in favor of his proposition. Mr. Wood commenced a speech in opposition to the bill, but yielded to a motion to adjourn.

GENERAL.

It is said the Trustees of Union College lately offered the Presidency of that institution to General George B. McClellan.

The Executive Committee of the subscribers to the fund of the National Peace Jubilee Association of Boston have decided to erect their building on St. James Park, west of Berkeley-street, and not upon the Common, as first proposed. This step was taken voluntarily, and for the purpose of restoring harmony.

Ex-President Pierce visited Boston on Monday. He is still quite feeble.

A Temperance Convention, to be composed of two delegates from every temperance organization or society in Texas, is to be held in Columbus, on the first Thursday in May, for the purpose of adopting some organization, to be recommended to all the friends of temperance in the State, and making such other suggestions as may be thought advisable.

The Rhode Island Democratic State Convention met at Providence yesterday, and nominated Lyman Pierce, Esq., of Providence, for Governor.

The examination of Pyke, the alleged wife prisoner, at Worcester, Mass., has been again postponed.

Sandford M. Hodges, a young man eighteen years of age, who was clerk in a bank at Northampton, Mass., committed suicide on Saturday last by shooting himself. His accounts were found to be all correct, and as he was a temperate, industrious young man, no satisfactory reason for the act can be assigned.

A portion of Brigham Young's interesting family arrived in Chicago yesterday.

James Johnson, alias Cady Matthews, was arrested at Fort Erie, Canada, yesterday, by Sheriff Brayton and a United States detective, with a requisition from the President. Johnson is charged with having committed highway robbery in Fulton County, N. Y.

The Legislature of New-Jersey recommitted the Jersey City Consolidation bill yesterday, and passed the bill to change the mode of managing the State Prisons. This act empowers the Governor, Chancellor, Chief-Justice and Attorney-General to appoint a General Supervisor of Prisons. The Governor sent in the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution, with a message giving his reasons why it should not be ratified by the Legislature.

The Rhode Island Legislature yesterday postponed the consideration of the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States until the May session.

Oregon advices viâ San Francisco bring rumors of earthquakes and eruptions—Mounts Hood, Jefferson and Three Brothers were smoking.

Colonel Polasco, a Mexican officer, escaped from jail at Mazatlan, and was, at last accounts, massing his forces to attack Eulican. General Placido Vega was hourly expected.

The Indiana Democratic members of the Legislature who resigned their seats, were all reëlected by their devoted constituents yesterday.

Governor Palmer, of Illinois, has ordered an election to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Hon. E. B. Washburne as Member of Congress.

The examination of the complaints of passengers by the ship James Foster, Jr., as to bad treatment during her late voyage from Liverpool to this port, was continued yesterday at Castle Garden, but, owing to the absence of Commissioner McElroy and certain German passengers, whom the counsel for the owners desired to examine, it was adjourned until 3 P. M. to-day.

The strike among the "rockmen," in Yorkville, which commenced on Monday, has extended as far up as Harlem. Gangs of the strikers are going about the Nineteenth, Twenty-third and Twelfth Precincts, and, although not using threats to those who continue at work, still their approach causes those at work to quit, as they say, through fear. No outbreaks of a riotous nature have taken place, owing to the presence of the Police of those districts, officers being posted at each place where work is being done.

The number of deaths in the City of Brooklyn last week was 152.

The two young men, Jahne and Fetter, recently arrested for the stabbing of Robert Donnelly, barkeeper in a saloon in Jersey City, have been bailed in $1,000 each to appear for trial.

The Workingwomen's Association met last night at Room No. 24, Cooper Institute. A report upon slopworkers was presented by Mrs. Anna McL. Shepard. Mrs. Frances E. McKinley, who acted as Chairman, spoke eloquently upon woman suffrage, and was followed by Mrs. Shepard, Mrs. King, Mr. W. R. Hyde and Mr. Henry J. Callo.

The Grand Jury yesterday found a true bill of indictment against William Gurney, for receiving some of the bonds stolen from the office of Cambreleng & Pyne by George King and John Dobbs on the 1st of January. Gurney was arrested on a bench-warrant by Captain Jourdan, of the Sixth Ward.

Judge Ingraham, in the Supreme Court, Special Term, yesterday delivered a decision affirming the validity of the bequest of James H. Roosevelt, who left the bulk of his property to found a hospital in this City.

The application for a peremptory mandamus to compel the City Chamberlain to pay a draft made by the Board of Education was heard yesterday, in the Supreme Court, before Judge Ingraham. The contest arises on an alleged forged, draft, paid two years ago, at the Broadway Bank, in favor of the Board of Education, for some $17,000. The Court directed issues to be framed submitting to a jury the question whether the draft be a forgery or not, and, if forged, whether or not the payment and consequent loss is due to the negligence of the Board of Education? The cause was ordered to be placed on the trial calendar for the first Monday of April.

Cotton was in much better demand and firmer in price yesterday. Breadstuffs were quoted stronger, as a rule, on a fair business, especially in low grades of flour, new mixed Corn and Western Oats. Provisions were quiet and irregular. Sugars in fair demand. Freights inactive, with 452 vessels of all classes in port.

Assistant Secretary of State.

The nomination of Mr. Bancroft Davis to the office of Assistant Secretary of State, if confirmed, will insure the Government an able, accomplished and energetic public servant. He is the eldest son of the late Governor, John Davis, of Massachusetts, so many years Senator from that State, and is a nephew of the present United States Minister to Prussia.

Mr. Davis is about forty-five years of age, is a well-read scholar and lawyer, and has adequate experience of diplomatic affairs. He first practiced law in Worcester, Mass., with his father, but when Mr. Abbott Lawrence became Minister to England, Mr. Davis was, on the suggestion of Mr. Webster, made Secretary of Legation; and in that capacity is understood to have been the real author of the correspondence of the Embassy.

During his four years' residence in London as Secretary he was a contributor to the Edinburgh Review. These contributions having attracted the attention of the London Times, Mr. Davis, on his return to the United States in 1854, became the American correspondent of that journal, and so continued until, by reason of the rebellion, its managers ceased to be willing to have justice done our Government in its columns, when Mr. Davis was succeeded by Mr. Russell. From 1855 to 1861 Mr. Davis was engaged in the practice of law in this City as a member of the firm of Eaton, Davis & Tailer, where his health failing, he visited Europe, where he traveled for two years, thus completing a knowledge of European affairs that will be of service to himself and the country in the Department of State.

Since his return from Europe Mr. Davis has had leisure for indulging his literary tastes, until he was elected a member of the present State Legislature, where he is now serving as Chairman of the Judiciary Committee of the Assembly.

Mr. Davis is one of the members of the old Board of Erie Directors whom the present managers had reëlected, doubtless to more surely divert suspicion from their intended frauds. And if he has, as we suppose, occupied a disagreeable and helpless position as a nominal director of that concern till this time, because friends of the road thought that he, being also a mortgage trustee, might, in a crisis, be useful, he, rather than they, is to be congratulated on his translation to a sphere of such honorable usefulness.

The Tax Commissioners' Bill.

As is generally understood, the construction of the law regulating the appointment of Tax Commissioners for this City is in dispute, so that there is no well-defined appointing power, and the present Commissioners are holding over,—that is, they are in office simply because there is no authority anywhere to appoint others in their stead. To remedy this inconvenience, the following bill has been passed by the State Senate and is now pending in the Assembly:

> An Act in relation to taxes and assessments in the City of New-York, and the office of Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments for the City and County of New-York:
> The people of the State of New-York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:
> SECTION 1. Within ten days after the passage of this act the Comptroller of the City of New-York shall appoint four Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments for the City and County of New-York, who shall hold their offices for the term of five years; and, upon such appointments being made, the terms of office of the present Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments for the City and County of New-York shall be terminated. The said Commissioners shall thereafter be appointed by the Comptroller of the City of New-York for the term of five years, and all vacancies in said office of Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments shall be filled by the said Comptroller for the remainder of the unexpired term. The said Commissioners shall be subject to removal only in the manner now provided by law for the removal of Sheriffs.
> SEC. 2. Upon the appointment of Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments being made, as provided in the preceding section, the several offices, clerkships and positions filled by the appointments of the present or any former Commissions of Taxes and Assessments of the City and County of New-York, shall become vacant. The Board of Assessors shall hereafter consist of four Assessors. The said Commissioners shall have authority, from time to time, to appoint and fix the compensation of such clerks and employes as they may deem essential to the effective discharge of the duties of said department, and said Commissioners respectively shall receive the same compensation as is now authorized by law. And for the more effectual discharge of their duties the said Commissioners are hereby authorized to employ counsel at an annual salary to be fixed by the Board of Supervisors of said county.
> SEC. 3. No new surveys or maps of the several Wards of the said City, shall be prepared for the use of said Commissioners except under the authority of the Supervisors of said county.
> SEC. 4. This act shall take effect immediately.

This is a most extraordinary bill,—one which we should not have supposed any Legislature having any regard to the interests of the City, and least of all a Republican Legislature, could be induced to regard with the slightest favor. Among its most objectionable features are these:

I. The City Comptroller, of necessity a partisan Democrat and leader of the Ring, has absolute power to appoint all the Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments, who will, of necessity, themselves be partisan Democrats and creatures of the Ring. And this is to be done regularly and permanently, from time to time, as occasion may require.

II. All the clerks, assistants and employes of the Tax Office are instantly dismissed by this bill as soon as it becomes a law, and their places are to be filled by the new Commissioners. As these clerkships are now fairly divided between Democrats and Republicans, the effect and object of this section is to dismiss all Republicans, and make all the clerks Democrats and creatures of the Ring. This strikes us as a curious provision to come from a Republican Legislature.

III. The Commissioners are to appoint as many clerks as they please, and to fix their salaries at whatever figure they please! If anybody can guess within a thousand the number of clerks that will be deemed necessary, or within a million of dollars what salaries will be given them, we should be glad to see the result. At present both these points are fixed by law, as they should be.

IV. The Commissioners themselves are not in terms authorized to fix their own salaries, —but that important service is to be rendered by the Board of Supervisors, which is probably the most corrupt and unscrupulous of the many corrupt and unscrupulous Boards connected with the City Government.

V. The same Board of Supervisors receives authority to order new surveys and maps of the "several wards of the City," at their own price and in their own style. This will cost not less than half a million of dollars, while it has hitherto been done, as it may be done hereafter, by the City Surveyor at a cost of not over $3,000 a year.

If it is possible for the parties concerned to devise a more outrageous and unjust measure for plundering the City than this, they will probably do so. But we deem it impossible. We trust, however, that the Legislature will not sanction this one on that account. It can only become a law by a combination of the most venal elements of both parties.

The New Collector.

We are sure the appointment of Moses H. Grinnell to be Collector of this Port will command the hearty approval of the great body of our citizens, of all classes and all parties. His name is universally known as that of one of our most honorable and eminent merchants, as a gentleman of most genial and generous qualities in social life, as an active, energetic and zealous, though never a bitter or a rancorous politician. He was for many years a prominent and effective member of the Whig Party, by which he was once elected to Congress, and was through all his life a devoted personal and political friend of Mr. Webster. He has been conspicuous for very many years in connection with every public-spirited enterprise, and though of late years he has been comparatively withdrawn from active political life, he has still taken part in all the elections and other leading movements of the day. There is no more honest or upright gentleman in the City, and we venture to say there is no one who would labor more earnestly for such reforms as the service requires than he. We are heartily rejoiced at his nomination. It is one which could not have been improved.

The Suffrage Amendment.

The Fifteenth Constitutional Amendment, forbidding any State from depriving any portion of its people of the right of suffrage, on account of race or color, meets a good deal of opposition in Republican quarters. Our correspondent, "A Veteran Observer," in a vigorous and interesting letter which we published yesterday, thus speaks of it:

> "My opinion has always been that what is called the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution, cannot be adopted in either Ohio or Indiana, or probably Illinois. If I understand that amendment, it forces the States to admit Chinese as well as negroes to vote, and Hindoos if they shall come. Now I want to ask you in the TIMES: First, If it is right to admit pagan Chinese and Hindoos to vote, if you could? Second, If you have a right to force upon any State, even by an amendment to the Constitution, a change in its fundamental structure, viz.: the members of the civil community? And third, How you propose to enforce that amendment on the States that reject the amendment? If the State of Ohio should reject that amendment, what can you do to enforce it? These are very serious questions, and if that amendment is to be carried into party issues, I think the Republican Party has more to dread than at any time since its formation."

These, certainly, are "very serious questions," and it is much more easy to ask than to answer them. We seem, since the war, to have launched out upon a rather extensive scheme of reconstructing our institutions of Government,—of "rebuilding our temple of liberty," as Mr. Thaddeus Stevens said, "on broader and better foundations than those which our fathers laid;"—and we presume we shall find the task a good deal more difficult, as it is certainly a good deal further from completion, than a good many of our enthusiastic reformers imagine.

If all distinctions of "race and color" are to be discarded, as barbarous and inconsistent with free institutions, we see not why "Chinese and Hindoos" should be excepted. If it is because they are "pagans," we can only say that this introduces the new element of religious distinction into our civil and political affairs,—and will require new definitions before the question can be solved. How much, and what, must men believe or disbelieve to be "pagans?" When do they cease to be pagans? Can there be such things as domestic, native pagans, or are none pagans but those who come to us from China or Hindostan?

As to the right to force anything we choose upon a State, by an amendment of the Federal Constitution, we supposed that had been settled affirmatively during the last three years, and that it had now become little less than treason, to the party at all events, to doubt it. The States have practically been reduced to very insignificant positions in our political system; and we have no doubt a very strong portion of the dominant political sentiment of the country looks upon them as much more like counties, or wholly subordinate fractions of the nation, than as essential elements of its sovereign authority.

How the amendment is to be enforced upon States that reject it, we do not know; but we presume in the same way as any other obligation of the national Constitution is enforced upon any State. We should like to answer this question by asking our correspondent another:—how is the authority of the amendment, if it becomes part of the Constitution, to be resisted by any State? Experiments made hitherto by States in that direction have not had prosperous or encouraging issues.

One thing seems to us clear;—it is an infamous mockery of justice and equal rights, to talk of making laws or passing constitutional amendments, securing political or civil rights to all men, without distinction of race or color, so long as Chinese or Hindoos are treated as they now are in California,—without hindrance or protest on the part of the General Government.

Removals from Office.

We hope soon to see the Tenure-of-Office law repealed,—not suspended, nor modified, nor amended,—but expunged from the statute book;—and that, too, not to oblige General Grant, nor to accommodate any class of office-seekers, but because it is not a good law,—because it deprives the Executive power of all vigor, and renders needed reforms in the administration of Government utterly impossible. These are the reasons why it should be repealed,—perhaps they are good reasons why it should never have been enacted. But it was enacted, not because it was a good law, on general principles, but to meet a special emergency; and that emergency being past, there is no longer any excuse for maintaining the law.

The law makes the Senate just as much the Executive as the President, in everything involving the discipline of the administrative force of the Government. The only means by which the Executive can secure faithful and effective service, on the part of its subordinates, is through the power of removal. Whatever weakens that power, relaxes Executive authority and renders its efficient exercise impossible. The Constitution wisely gave the Senate joint control over the appointment of Government officials; but when once appointed, they pass under the exclusive supervision and control of the President, who has thus the power to exact faithful service at their hands, and to see that "the laws are faithfully executed."

This law strips him of that power by associating the Senate with him in its exercise. It is impossible that so large a body as the Senate should use the power of removal from office with the vigor, the promptness and the energy which alone give it value. Madison, in the first debate that arose on this question, said it was not only the obvious intent of the Constitution, but the absolute necessity of the case, that the President should have the sole and unchecked power of removing subordinates from office. And the Government has been administered on that theory from its origin to the present day. With the sole exception of the brief period during which the present law controlled Mr. Johnson's action, no such restriction has been imposed for a single day on any President. And nothing could demonstrate the impolicy of such a law more clearly than the experience of that brief season. The Senate may, by its means, have kept some good men in office, but it certainly prevented any bad men from being turned out. The Revenue service never was so corrupt and inefficient as during that period. Abuses crept into every department of the public service, and were kept by that law beyond the reach of remedy.

General Grant is unquestionably entitled to the repeal of the law—and undoubtedly desires it. But that is not the main reason why it should be repealed. It is not a good law. It is not adapted to the necessities of the public service, nor calculated to promote the public good. It retards reform, by weakening the Executive power, through which alone reforms can be effected. It prolongs and perpetuates abuses by putting them beyond Executive interference; and it impairs the vigor and energy of our constitutional system of Government, by giving the Senate a controlling share of the Executive power, which it was never intended to exercise or possess.

The Senate is naturally reluctant to part with a power of which it has thus come in possession. This is precisely the way in which all grasping branches of government increase their power,—by clinging to authority, conferred to meet a temporary emergency, as if it were a portion of their permanent power, and thus gradually making it such. Some of the Senators, in voting for the impeachment of Mr. Johnson, under the third article, committed themselves to the theory that under the Constitution, as well as under this law, the Senate shared the power of removal as well as the power of appointment; and they find themselves thus embarrassed in now voting for a repeal of the law. But the position is clearly untenable, and has never been maintained either by judicial decision or by legal argument; and the sooner they abandon it the better.

In clinging so obstinately to a power conferred upon it to meet a temporary emergency, in clear and direct conflict with the uniform usage of the Government through its entire history, with the opinions of those who framed the Constitution, with the decided vote of the House of Representatives, the general sentiment of the people, and the obvious necessities of the public service, the Senate greatly weakens its hold upon the country, and assumes a degree of authority in the Government to which it is not entitled. We hope it will concur with the House in repealing the Tenure-of-Office law, —not for any party or personal reasons, not to please a President or to put new party friends in office;—but because the law stands in the way of imperative reforms, and is not calculated to promote the public welfare.

Mr. Gladstone's Victory.

Mr. Gladstone has at length brought the first stage of his arduous task to a triumphant termination. His Irish Church bill was read a second time in the House of Commons on Tuesday night by the decisive vote of 368 to 250—the majority, 118, being identical in number with the full Liberal majority in the House. There are several seats vacant, and as there are always a good many "pairs" on such occasions, it follows that the vote must have been very nearly a full one. There was no flinching on either side. The Tories fought their hopeless battle with sullen obstinacy, and without loss from desertion, and the Liberals proved true to a man to their hustings pledges; none of the "weak-kneed" members of the party, if such there be, made the certainty of victory an excuse for absence, and the deafening cheers that burst forth at the close of their leader's final appeal showed that they were heart and soul in the cause, and not dragged unwillingly along by party ties.

The triumph is a signal one; and the fact that the success of the Liberals has been generally regarded as a matter of certainty for several months, should not be suffered to lead one to underestimate the importance of the victory they have now actually achieved. When Parliament met, the Tories were evidently not entirely destitute of hope. There might be dissensions in the Cabinet; Mr. Gladstone might bring forward an immature or impracticable measure; he might commit some rash indiscretion which would alienate a large portion of his party —such were the "things that might have been," out of which the Tories were then busily engaged in constructing castles in the air. It was not till the night of Mr. Gladstone's marvelous introductory speech, in which a grand and statesmanlike scheme, necessarily burdened with an almost unparalleled intricacy of detail, was laid by him before the House, without, as Mr. Disraeli himself confessed, "a single needless phrase," that hope deserted the breasts of his opponents. It is evident from the abstracts of the debate that have reached us from day to day by the cable, that the Tories were paralyzed by the sense of the hopelessness of their position. Mr. Disraeli confined himself to a few general remarks in opposition to the principle of the bill, and all the other chieftains, with the exception of Sir Stafford Northcote and Mr. Gathorne Hardy, were absolutely silent. They dared not even take the aggressive by moving an abstract condemnatory resolution, or an amendment assailing the provisions or machinery of the bill. They sullenly divided against the second reading, and met their fate in dignified silence.

Parliament has now adjourned until April 3, when the struggle will be renewed in Committee of the Whole. The Tories may attempt, by continual harassing attacks on details, to drive the third reading so far into the session as to give the Lords an excuse for rejecting it on the ground of insufficiency of time for discussion. But we doubt if such tactics could prove successful, and we are certain that those interested in the temporalities of the Irish Church can never expect again to get such good terms as those offered them in Mr. Gladstone's admirably designed and equitable measure. If they succeed in postponing a settlement for another year— so much the worse for them. We are inclined to fancy that both they and their political leaders will see this, and that the bill will be suffered to become a law with little further opposition than a series of formal registrations of protests by its opponents.

MINOR TOPICS.

A good deal of contumely was heaped upon "Census" Depew for discovering that in 1865 the population of this City was less than one million,—that figure generally having been accepted as the minimum of our numbers until the delusion was dispelled by the official figures. The Census Bureau was not in fault, however. Our population has not increased in the natural ratio. High rents have driven thousands upon thousands out of the City, increasing the population of contiguous counties both in this State and New-Jersey. It is safe to say that at least one hundred thousand people, who would gladly have made their homes in this City and contributed to its material and numerical growth, have been forced by the exorbitant demands of landlords, insufficient street locomotion and lack of desirable house-room, to cast their lots in the suburbs, where they can live in comfort.

It is not easy to see on what ground the request that the Mercantile Library may be opened on holidays, including Sundays, can be refused,—or why there should be any hesitation in regard to it. A very large proportion of those for whose benefit it exists can get no other time for its use, and what possible harm can come from it no one has taken the trouble to point out or even suggest. It would involve some extra attendance, perhaps, on the part of the Library clerks and attendants; but that difficulty could easily be obviated by employing a few extra attendants, or perhaps by increasing the pay of those now there in proportion to their increased labor. But the measure proposed is one of importance to a great many persons, and would be productive of very great good.

As we anticipated, the Select Committee of the House of Commons appointed to inquire into the Atlantic postal service, has reported against the confirmation of the contracts made by the late Government with the Cunard and Inman Steamship Companies. Their rejection by the House may now be regarded as certain, and so far at least as Great Britain is concerned, the way is now cleared for a full reconsideration of the whole system of the ocean mail service between England and America, with a view, as we hope, to its reconstruction on the proper basis—that of ocean penny postage.

We had better have an investigation as soon as possible into the management of affairs at Sing Sing Prison, or else the recent activity of our Judges against crime will all be wasted. Beside the frequent escapes lately mentioned there were two revolts recently, and to-day we have an account of another outbreak. There must be something all wrong that ought to be very peremptorily put right.

"Late Alaska advices report business dull and Indians quiet." So says the San Francisco telegram, and it is good news. It is good news, unexpectedly good news, to find the Indians, after the stirring up our troops have administered, "quiet." It is also good news to find that "business is dull"—because that implies there is business enough there to be dull, which has hitherto been somewhat questionable. The best news would be that of some future steamer, that "Indians are inert, and business brisk."

The English Tories are making a very poor fight for the Church of Ireland. The second reading—the usual test-reading of all bills—has passed by a large majority, and Disraeli, who should have harangued in desperate resistance or died upon the floor, has said nothing. The battle in the House of Commons has evidently been a half-hearted one. But it may be otherwise in the Lords. Those "pillars (caterpillars) of the State" could once baffle the Russells and Melbournes in something of the same quarrel. Will they stem the torrent now? No, they can't. "Old times are changed—old manners gone."

The Glasgow cotton operatives, who are on the strike, ought to come to America; for it is doubtful if, in the present state of the market, their employers will accede to their demands. It is true that a great part of our workingmen also are either on the strike or threatening to strike; but still it is a fact that if these skilled cotton operatives were placed in our cotton-raising States, and were set to work manufacturing fine cotton goods, they would soon find themselves abundantly remunerated. Senator Sprague, who is a great cotton manufacturer, who is a great friend of the working classes, and who has lately been buying up or establishing cotton factories in the Southern States, could probably furnish information on this matter.

Grasping landlords are playing mischief with the best interests of the City. Their extortions and cupidity are driving people of moderate means to their wits' end. Just now these half-demented victims of high rents are in an agony of distress. Look where they will, they cannot find proper shelter for their families. The alternative is a residence out of town. The most accessible refuge for a New-Yorker in this sore strait is New-Jersey. Fine railroads, healthy situations and pleasant neighbors all invite in this direction. This is good for New-Jersey, but very bad for New-York. The process of depletion is going on so rapidly that this City in a few years must lose the bulk of its best sort of citizens. Deprived of this conservative element of the population, it will be necessary to take precautions against that dangerous stage of her growth where "wealth accumulates and men decay."

Prosecutions, both criminal and civil, are to be instituted by the passengers of the horror ship James Foster. The consignees will be sued for damages, and those of the officers who are still alive, will be sued for homicide or cruelty. It is certainly time there was some penalty for the outrages often perpetrated upon emigrants in passenger ships.

It is well known that when General Butler, during the impeachment trial, seized all the telegraphic dispatches on file in the Washington offices, he discovered a good many private matters and personal secrets of one kind or another. He made use of some of these on the trial, to injure Johnson's friends, and prejudice his case, but the greater part of the dispatches were, of course, of no service to him in dealing with that particular business. It is now alleged in Washington that the dispatches of Mr. Schenck, which he then got hold of, constituted the basis on which he charged Schenck with being in the "whisky ring." The friends of the latter throw back the charge on Butler, and thus the case now stands. Instead of being a "pretty quarrel," as it stands, it is a most disgraceful business all round.

We see that two more portraits of men who have been Mayors have been ordered by the Common Council, at a cost of $1,000 each, to be hung up in what is called the Governor's Room in the City Hall. We say nothing of the price paid, for that has come to be a matter of no consequence to "our City authorities." But we hope special care will be taken to have the portraits legibly labeled—else the chances are that when they turn up, as they are sure to do, a few years hence, in some out of the way lumber-room, there will not be an inhabitant of the City living who can tell whether they are portraits of extinct Mayors or of a couple of ancient Assyrian bulls. Our Mayors do not, as a general thing, so impress themselves upon the age in which they live as to make their memories imperishable; and considering what they are, we deem this a fortunate circumstance.

Latest accounts from Paraguay say that Lopez, now at bay with a few thousand men, speaks of selling his country to General McMahon, for the United States—just as the Romans, when besieged by Hannibal, sold and bought in the Forum the ground his camp was pitched on, courageously assuming that it was theirs to dispose of as much as ever. But even if McMahon makes the bargain for Paraguay, we should not know what to do with it,—or, in fact, how to get it from the Brazilians. Better delay this purchase till we have decided about Nova Scotia, and Cuba, and Hayti, and San Domingo, and St. Thomas, and Canada, and Mexico, and the "whole boundless continent," down as far as the Isthmus of Panama.

That Western movement about getting up Irish Societies in all the States, connected with a Central Bureau in New-York, for the helping along of immigrants, is a good one. The future movements of thousands and tens of thousands who will come in search of homesteads or places of labor, should be guided and regulated with more knowledge and certainty than heretofore.

The Sorosis of Madrid has made itself heard boldly and personally in the halls of the Cortes. Two hundred women marched in and presented a petition against the Conscription law proposed as the military system. They were received with respect. But Spain can hardly exempt herself from the policy of the formidable monarchies around her; and men must march and women must weep, very probably, after the old fashion, for a great many years to come.

AMUSEMENTS.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

There was a brilliant audience last evening to witness Auber's charming opera of "Fra Diavalo"—a work which, in its Italian dress, has gained an unmistakable hold on the public. Miss Kellogg was the Zerlina, and played and sang the part with delightful vivacity. There are few rôles that become her so well. The Lady Rochburg of Miss Frida de Gebele was in every way a good performance. Of the rest a mere mention will suffice. Sig. Ronconi was the Lord Rochburg, and gave his extremely droll illustration of the traveling Englishman. Herr Hablemann was a capital Fra Diavalo, and the two bandits were adequately represented by Messrs. Barili and Dubreuil. The orchestra and chorus were thoroughly efficient.

There will be no further performance until Saturday, when "Fra Diavalo" will be repeated at the matinée. In the evening "Le Prophete" will be given. This will close the season.

WALLACK'S THEATRE.

Our out of town friends should remember that there will be a matinée performance of "School" on Saturday. Unquestionably a crowd will be present and every one should get their seats at once.

The regular summer season at Wallack's Theatre will commence on the 1st of June, and, as heretofore, under the able direction of Mr. Theodore Moss. An entirely new company has been engaged for the campaign—a pantomime company from England, and the best there, the Lauri troupe. As pantomimists the artists composing this combination are without rivals. The opening week will be a new rendering of "Robinson Crusoe."

Workingwomen's Association.

The regular fortnightly meeting of the Workingwomen's Association took place last evening at Room No. 24, Cooper Institute, Mrs. Francis E. McKinley being in the chair. Mrs. Anna McL. Shepard read a report on slop work, telling a story of a German widow who supported herself and two young children on 45 cents a day. Of this, 25 cents was consumed for rent and fuel, leaving but 20 cents for food. She worked, with but little interruption, until 1 o'clock each morning. Mrs. Shepard moved that a committee be appointed to visit the insane asylums of the neighborhood, and report upon the treatment and condition of the women there. She then touched upon the numerous cases where women were driven to evil courses of life through hunger. The province of poverty-stricken women, she thought, seemed to be to sell, and that of men to steal. Mrs. King said that if women had the ballot they could, in imitation of men, sell at least one thing before selling themselves, viz., their vote.

Mr. W. R. Hyde spoke of a store in San Francisco where goods manufactured by workingwomen were sold, and the entire proceeds of their labor given to them with exception of a charge for expenses. He urged that a similar establishment be opened here, and that the members of the different workingmen's unions of this City should be requested to purchase there, if they could do so on terms equally advantageous as at other stores.

Mrs. McKinley then made an interesting speech, discussing the subject of woman suffrage with much force and wit.

Discussions then ensued between Mr. Henry J. Callo and a number of ladies, which afforded much hilarity.

The Fever Ship James Foster.

The Committee appointed by the Commissioners of Emigration to take testimony upon the brutalities practiced upon Charles H. Marshall & Co.'s ship James Foster, and upon the insufficient and defective food on board, resumed their sitting yesterday at Castle Garden. It was found that Mr. O'Gorman, the Commissioner who had signed the notice of the sitting addressed to Mr. Marshall, was absent, and as the law required his presence, an adjournment took place until to-day at 3 o'clock. In addition to the Captain and first mate of the James Foster, the following passengers have died since arrival from sickness contracted during the passage from Liverpool: George A. Hubb, aged 43; Henry Bowdell, 60; Wm. Glenton, 49; Wm. Knighton, 41; Patrick Feeny, 36; Ellen Brooks, 29; Edward Brooks, aged 6 months; Cornelia Edwards, 6 months; Mary Sefton, 40.

Book Sale at Bangs & Merwin's.

The sale of the private library at Bangs & Merwin's was concluded yesterday afternoon. A large number of standard theological, historical and miscellaneous works were disposed of at good prices. The editions were good and the books in good condition. Among those of special interest sold yesterday were a number relating to America and American history, some scarce German and French books of travel, and numerous rare pamphlets, some of them published in this country during the Revolution. On Monday afternoon the same firm commences the sale of the library of Hon. Albert G. Greene, consisting of more than 7,000 volumes, many of them very valuable. The special feature of the collection is the department of American poetry.

New-York City Mission Sociable.

There was a social gathering of the friends and teachers of the New-York City Mission, at Olivet Chapel, in Second-street, last evening, which proved to be a successful affair. The object of the entertainment was to gather into the chapel persons in the neighborhood and invite them to attend regularly upon the services held there on Sundays. Rev. Geo. J. Mingins and Rev. Mr. James made short addresses, and the rest of the time was devoted to conversation, singing, sandwiches and coffee. These entertainments will be repeated from time to time.

The Printers' Strike.

Committees from both the employing printers and the Typographical Union will meet again to-day, for the purpose of discussing the scale proposed by the latter. There have been already two meetings for the purpose, but as there are thirty-eight articles for separate discussion, time has been needed for a settlement. There is reason to suppose, therefore, that the differences will soon be arranged, and the nine weeks' strike closed.

THE ISTHMUS.

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMSHIP OCEAN QUEEN.

The steamship Ocean Queen, from Aspinwall March 15, arrived at this port yesterday. She brings the following amounts of treasure:

Eugene Kelly & Co..	$60,000	S. L. Isaac & Asch..	2,012
Wells, Fargo & Co..	31,248
Fred. Probst & Co...	10,000	Total..............	$103,260

United States of Colombia—Alleged Forfeiture of a Bond—The Sale of Ice—Marine News.

PANAMA, Monday, March 15, 1869.

We have no news from the capital, and nothing from either Central or South America.

The State of Panama is tranquil at present. The President, or Dictator, is about to make a visit into the several departments, to take notes of the situation of the State, and to see how his officers are getting on.

Some three or four years since the firm of JAMES S. HERMANN & Co., Panama, bought the American steamship Uncle Sam and loaded her with supplies for the Spanish Navy, at that time blockading Chilian ports. The Uncle Sam was about to proceed to sea, when she was seized by agents of the National Government here, and her owners compelled to give a bond in the sum of $120,000, guaranteeing that she would not violate the neutrality of New-Granada in the war between Chili and Spain. But in spite of this heavy bond, the vessel was purposely run right into the jaws of a Spanish frigate, which of course gobbled her up. The Uncle Sam being a very fast vessel, was thenceforward used by the Spaniards, and with great advantage to them, as a dispatch boat. Now, the Government of New-Granada or Colombia demands the forfeit; and on the 9th seized the goods, valued at $40,000, of WILLIAM DE ROUX, representative of HERMANN & Co., and also his house, worth $25,000 more. Mr. DE ROUX's shop remains closed.

On the 10th instant the National Government formally made over to the Panama Railroad Company about 240,000 acres of lands in this State, conceded to the Company by the late contract for the extension of the privilege. An extra train started from Panama in the morning with the President of the State and suite, the Agent of the Company, the Chief Engineer, the United States Consuls at Panama and Aspinwall, and a number of editors, and reached Aspinwall at 5 P. M., the parties stoping at each five-mile post to examine maps and make the delivery. The agent entertained the whole company previous to starting with a fine breakfast at the Grand Hotel, and afterwards with a lunch at Matachin, and a superb dinner in the evening. The whole company called on the United States Consul at Aspinwall, who also "did the needful." The ceremony was a very pleasant one, and the day was one of great enjoyment to all concerned.

On the 13th an attempt was made to dispose at auction of an exclusive privilege to sell ice in Panama and Aspinwall without success, the Government finding no bidders.

The fine screw steamer Australian, of the West India and Liverpool line to Aspinwall, reached the latter port three days since under sail, having broken her shaft 200 miles from port. She will be repaired by the Panama Railroad Company, and be ready for sea in two or three weeks. The Venezuelan, of the same line, expected on the 20th, will take the cargo designed for the Australian.

The United States sloop-of-war Cyane is at Panama. The gun-boat Nipsic left Aspinwall on the 6th for Carthagena and has not yet returned.

SPECIE PAYMENTS.

Plan of Mr. Amasa Walker to Secure Resumption of Specie Payments—Letter from Mr. G. S. Coe.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, March 24.

The following correspondence, giving the views of Mr. AMASA WALKER, of Massachusetts, and Mr. COE, President of the American Exchange Bank, of New-York, on the resumption of specie payments, &c., has been received by Mr. GARFIELD, Chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency:

Hon. James A. Garfield:

MY DEAR SIR: Having observed with great pleasure your course hitherto upon all questions relating to money and finance, I take the liberty in this manner to present for your consideration the following plan for the gradual but voluntary reduction of the currency and its restoration to the specie standard.

I am induced to do this because all the plans heretofore brought forward in Congress have contemplated either the absolute withdrawal of a part of the existing circulation, or the compulsory resumption of specie payments by the National Treasury and banks, in obedience to legislative enactment. All such measures being entirely arbitrary in their character, do not recognize those laws of supply and demand which should always be carefully regarded in every provision relating to the currency, commerce and industry of the country. At present, there are two kinds of currency in use—the issues of the national banks, and the Treasury notes known as greenbacks. The circulation of both of these is under control of Congress, which can compel the withdrawal of either or both pro rata, as it shall deem most advantageous to the public interests; but in either case, the contraction effected would be a compulsory one, made by force of law and without reference to the existing demands of trade or the needs of the currency, and it is quite apparent, from what we have already seen, it is not in accordance with the popular will; and it seems desirable, therefore, that some plan which, while it shall be certain to secure the intended object—the restoration of the currency to the specie value—will not be liable to those objections which have been urged against every measure hitherto proposed for that purpose—some plan more in harmony with public opinion and the laws of trade. Believing that this can be done, I venture to present the following propositions:

First—That Congress authorize the issue of compound interest notes, precisely like those with which the people are already familiar, to an extent equal to its Treasury notes, say $360,000,000, or so many as may be required to redeem the greenbacks. Let them be of the denomination of $5, $10, $20 and $50, with a suitable proportion of $100 and $1,000 for large operations.

Second—Let these notes be dated on the first day of each successive month, commencing with the first day of July next, when ten millions should be made ready for issue, and an equal amount on each succeeding month, until the entire quantity has been furnished.

Third—Let these notes be convertible into ten-forty bonds at five per cent., like those heretofore issued, at the end of two years from date, but not before.

Fourth—Let Congress imperatively require that these notes and no other be paid out for all disbursements of the Treasury, except those payable in coin, so long as there are sufficient to meet the wants of the Government, and if the whole monthly issues are not thus put in circulation, let the Secretary of the Treasury be required to exchange them for greenbacks, as he will undoubtedly be able to do, since they must be much preferred to the latter.

THE RESULTS TO BE GAINED.

Such is the general outline of the plan here proposed, and the following results may be confidently anticipated:

First—The notes being widely diffused throughout the entire nation, will come into the hands of all classes, and eventually supersede the present greenbacks, and consequently, if persons anywhere are able and disposed to hoard them or lay them by as an investment, they will have abundant opportunity to do so, and from what we have seen in relation to the compound interest notes heretofore issued, we may be certain that this will, to a great extent, take place; and that finally the whole mass will be converted into ten-forty bonds.

Second—Under this plan there can be no contraction of the currency that is not wholly voluntary on the part of the people, for so far as it takes place it will be done, not by the arbitrary act of the Government, or banks, or by the speculative classes, but entirely by the individual holders of the notes.

Third—It is evident that since those who buy the notes do so for the sake of the interest upon them, they will be certain to put them into circulation again, if the demand for money is such that they can gain more by using or loaning them than by keeping them on hand. This will, of course, prevent the possibility of any extravagant security of money, or high rate of interest, since whenever the rate is much above six per cent., the compound interest notes will be brought into circulation, and all danger of a panic in the money market will be effectually prevented.

Fourth—Again it may be observed that these notes will form an elastic currency, in the best use of that term; and although elasticity is the worst and most undesirable quality in a currency designed for permanent use, yet as an alternative during the transition from a vastly expanded and wholly irredeemable currency to one equivalent to gold, such a quality will at least prevent the danger of distress or loss which many persons fear would attend the return of specie payment by the absolute and direct withdrawal of a part of the circulating medium. At present the currency of the country, consisting wholly of credit, or mere promises to pay at some future and indefinite period, remains a fixed quantity without any reference to the wants of trade, since it cannot, like specie, be exported and imported according to the varying demands of commerce. By the substitution of compound interest notes this peculiarity will no longer exist, because both a centripetal and a centrifugal force will be introduced into the currency—a centripetal force, because there will be a certain and constant tendency to hoarding as the ability of individuals will permit; and a centrifugal force, because the events of trade, the demand for money will be certain to draw out these notes whenever, and to such an extent, as they shall be really needed. This desideratum, so earnestly contended for by many persons, will be certainly secured.

Fifth—But another point worthy of special notice is the very gradual manner in which the contraction will be effected. At first only ten millions of the compounds will be issued, and these will be distributed broadcast throughout the nation. Gradually, as they fall into the hands of those who do not need them for immediate use, they will be hoarded. Another, and still another monthly installment will be sent out, received and treated in the same way, but not a dollar of it can be absolutely withdrawn from use until the end of two years, and then only at the rate of ten millions per month; and it will be only at the end of five years that the whole amount can be funded, while the entire three hundred and sixty millions can, and, if needed, will be kept in circulation till the end of the latter period. There can be no doubt, however, that the contractile force will be amply sufficient under the plan here proposed to cause a gradual but effective withdrawal of a large part of these notes soon after they are put in circulation; but as they are thus withdrawn prices will fall correspondingly, so that less and less currency will be needed for the transfer of commodities, and therefore, although the currency is constantly diminishing, the demand for it will decrease in at least an equal ratio, and the money market will be as easy as before the contraction commenced. Of such a result no one acquainted with the laws of money and finance can have the least doubt.

HOW RESUMPTION WILL BE SECURED.

If it be asked how the resumption of specie payments will be secured when the compound notes have been finally funded, it may be replied that when that event has taken place there will be no other circulation than that issued by the national banks, amounting to three hundred millions, which will be at least equal to the natural amounts required by the business wants of the country, and will, of course, be nearly or quite on a par with gold; but to assume that it will be so, Congress may provide that the banks shall retain all the specie thereafter received for coupons until they resume payment, and if needful, the banks may be prohibited from holding the compound interest notes as a part of their reserve of lawful money. That would compel the banks to supply themselves with the necessary amounts of specie. It will, however, be found practically that as the volume of the currency is brought near to its natural limit, much of the gold forced out of the country during the expansion will be returned (as was the case in 1857–8) while all our own product will be retained at home, and thus the banks, without effort or expense, will accumulate all the specie their wants require.

ECONOMY OF THE MEASURE.

If it be objected to the foregoing plan that it obliges the Government to pay interest on its own notes, it may be replied that such a result is unavoidable whenever the greenbacks are funded, as in some form they must ultimately be; the Government has promised to pay its notes, and as it is not able to discharge them with specie, it is bound, in common equity and honesty, to pay interest upon them until it can. The transitional plan here proposed, by which, through the issue of compound-interest notes, the floating promises of the Treasury will be eventually funded, while one that is perfectly honorable, will be found, it is believed, highly satisfactory to the public. Certainly it will be an economical arrangement, because the Government, so far from losing interest, will gain largely by the operation, since it must result in a rapid restoration of the national credit to that point at which the whole public debt may be consolidated into one uniform stock at not over 4½ per cent. For the want of a well-settled and judicious policy for resuming specie payment, the nation is now losing more than it gains in the annual interest upon some $360,000,000 of its circulating notes.

Unless the country is to suffer for an indefinite period all the disgrace and loss inseparable from depreciated credit; unless it is to be given over to all the evils and dangers incident to an irredeemable currency, some definite and efficient measure must be adopted to secure its restoration to the specie standard. The foregoing plan is, therefore, submitted with great deference, yet with entire confidence, to your consideration, in the belief that, since it does not arbitrarily withdraw from the people one dollar of currency, but simply permits them to invest their greenbacks, if they choose, in the course of five years in ten-forty bonds, it is more likely to be approved by the law-making power, more safe and practical, and more in accordance with the laws of trade and the industrial interests of the nation than any that has thus far been presented to the attention of Congress.

Faithfully, your friend,

AMASA WALKER.

WASHINGTON, March 18, 1869.

LETTER OF MR. COE.

THE AMERICAN EXCHANGE NATIONAL BANK,
NEW-YORK, March 16, 1869.

Hon. Amasa Walker, Bureau of Statistics, Washington, D. C.:

MY DEAR SIR: Your note of yesterday is at hand. The plan you suggest is so entirely in accordance with my own views, that I would almost believe we had heard each other think. The decision of the Supreme Court legalizing gold contracts has opened the way for business upon specie measure. This is one of the objects attained. It is perceptibly extending in practice, and will daily gain ground because of its inherent soundness. The other half to be secured is that of dispensing with the present vicious (because indefinite and variable) measure, the currency, and the method suggested is the best one practicable. It is gradual, ten millions per month; and being legal tender for their face, the compound notes will be available still until the accumulated interest sinks them, and ultimately they become ten-forty bonds.

With these two measures in operation, the one advancing as the other recedes, it seems to me we shall reach specie payment with absolute certainty, and in harmony with natural causes.

With the influence of national banks in Congress, I doubt the practicability of securing your "fourth." The bank notes are receivable and payable for public dues, by excluding them you awaken the opposition of the great bank interest—a formidable power, I fear.

One thing is certain, the bank notes now received for internal taxes and revenue should be assorted at the Treasury and presented for redemption at their agencies in New-York, and unless the habit of redeeming this circulation be well established before the legal-tender notes become reduced in value, it will be impossible for many banks to convert their assets into money. I regard this preparatory measure indispensable to the permanency of the banking system. If the country is to depend upon that for its business, and that upon a specie basis, it must be hardened to the required power. The system was born of paper, and needs such regeneration.

Wishing you much success in your programme, I remain, yours truly, G. S. COE.

I feel confident of being able to carry through the scheme here. It is an idea often expressed among the best of our bankers, and approved. With a system of practical redemption there would be no objection to throwing the banking privilege open to free and unlimited use. The disposition to expend, and the daily obligation to redeem, would prove centrifugal and centripetal forces. With the present struggle for banking privilege in Congress, might not this thing be secured and the suggestion aid your plan?

Card from Dr. Dixon—Statement of the Affair Between Him and Dr. Shine.

To the Editor of the Sun:

SIR: I can hardly suppose, from your knowledge of my personal character, and the efforts I have made for the reform of the numerous terrible abuses of the various rings of the City, that you designed to allow Dr. WOOSTER BEACH to make a reflection on my professional character, or my veracity, by the "card" he publishes in your paper of to-day. To show you the character of the "gentleman" who has thought proper assume the defence of the Coroners, and in aid of which Dr. WOOSTER BEACH publishes his card in your paper, defending the Coroners generally, I inclose for your inspection his statement to one of the reporters of the Tribune—the report of the "Fracas between Physicians." It is substantially correct, with two exceptions. Dr. SHINE entered my house with another and very powerful man. I met them at the foot of the basement stairs, designing to ask them to take a seat in the back parlor, as there were two gentlemen in the office. He had his carriage-whip in his hand, and as gentlemen do not usually carry such things into physicians' offices, I asked him what he wanted, in a manner appropriate to his manners and appearance. He replied he would "soon let me know," throwing down his card, and demanding if I was the author of the article that appeared in the Tribune, the essential part of which you transferred to your columns, with some commendatory remarks. I told him I was, and immediately ordered him to leave my office, opening both the doors for his exit, designing to use force if necessary. He was advised by his companion to go. This he did as soon as I reentered the office, Captain HIGGINS and a gentleman who is engaged in one of our City banks being in the room, and a lady coming down the office steps as he went out. He used very opprobrious language, calling me an old ruffian, &c. I immediately returned, leaving him in the court-yard, and resumed my conversation with my two patients, to whom the lady was now added. The windows are very large, and a full view of the court-yard may be had from every part of the room; of this they availed themselves and saw all that passed. I was about to explain to my patients the cause of the attack, when Dr. SHINE returned, his companion being near, or in the carriage, and struck the window with his horsewhip. Instantly I arose, and going out and up to him, commanded him to lower his whip, which he had raised, and leave the yard. He did so in a moment. To this all three of my patients will testify. This is the character for veracity of the "gentleman." The report published in the Tribune, from my own lips, is correct in every particular, the reporter leaving with me the written account received from Dr. SHINE by a brother reporter, which appears in the Herald of to-day. I can only say that I design to pursue the subject of the abuses, and will hand you another instance in a day or two on this subject, and a kindred abuse of an equally heinous character.

I have now been too many years a resident of this City, after three preceding generations, and have published too many articles on the rascality of her officials, to be frightened by Dr. SHINE or his brethren.

NEW-YORK, March 23.

The Attack on the Pacific Railroad Company.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In view of the unfair attack now being made on the Union Pacific Railroad Company and its enterprising and energetic managers, it would be well for the public to read the following recent dispatch, and ponder a moment over the fact contained therein:

"The Union Pacific Railroad will commence carrying passengers and mails to Ogden on Thursday. This is 1,034 miles west from Omaha."

The amazingly short space of time it has taken to open up to civilization the Great Salt Lake Valley, with its 150,000 population, and to render accessible, also, the vast treasures of the Rocky Mountain ranges, is certainly something remarkable, and worthy of more than passing notice, it seems to me, even in these days of wonderful progress and rapid development.

The writer of these lines has but recently returned from the interesting and fertile region now for the first time rendered accessible, and he cannot refrain from bearing testimony in favor of a corporation that has displayed so much perseverance under difficulties entirely unknown to the habitual residents of the civilized and cultivated East. And, moreover, when the present promoters of this enterprise first risked their money, as well as their reputation as business men in the undertaking, they could not foresee that a more favorable "Pass" through the rocky ranges would be discovered, by which a fair return for their money and their time would be secured. Only 200 miles are now required to unite the Atlantic and Pacific States by rail. Verily, this is something marvelous to contemplate; and five short years ago, when this country was struggling through its giant civil war, would have been pronounced an utter impossibility. Is it fair, then, that the American Press, and the American people should tolerate the wanton and utterly unprincipled attacks now being made upon the promoters of this great national highway by desperate and reckless adventurers who neither have, or are likely to have, anything whatever at stake therein?

The road, so far as it was constructed before the present Winter set in, is as well built as the majority of railways in America, gratuitous assertions of those who have never been over the road to the contrary notwithstanding; and the writer of this paragraph deems it only a duty that he owes to the public that this statement be made.

A FRIEND OF PROGRESS.

THAT FIGHT AT OXFORD.

Contest Between Laborers and Roughs—Many Persons Frightened, but No One Killed—The Town Not Burnt—All Quiet at Last on the Chenango.

From the Utica Herald, March 23.

Last Friday night the telegraph agent at Oxford sent a dispatch flying over the country to the effect that the laborers on the Midland Railroad in that vicinity had a fight with the people of the village on St. Patrick's Day; that the Irish were the aggressors; that the citizens had with difficulty driven them out of the town; that the Irishmen burned from the soles of their feet to the crowns of their heads for sweet revenge; that a little less than a thousand of these doughty followers of St. Patrick were sharpening their picks and brightening their shovels, on the hills back of the village, for the purpose of devoting Saturday last to digging up every house in the place, piling them into an immense altar on "the Island," and offering them as a burnt sacrifice to the angry Saint! Furthermore, the dispatch said that the male citizens were preparing for the bloody affray, and that they would protect their household goods. Doubtless the agent would have added that the citizens would even protect their wives and children, but the excitement and terror under which he labored excuses the mention of all minor details.

Friday night at Oxford was passed anxiously. Twenty extra policemen were appointed. They passed the night, Heaven knows how! at any rate the night was passed, and the policemen came out half a length ahead. Saturday morning dawned, the day on which Oxford was to be laid in ashes. It was a beautiful day. The sun rose, as usual, as did also the good people of the village. The Chenango River and Chenango Canal rolled onward their turbid waters (the water was only slightly clogged with ice) to the sea, while the Deputy Sheriff of the place (a knight of St. Crispin) rolled up his sleeves, and deliberately, on this the very day when Oxford was to be burned, deliberately tapped a boy's boot! He did it fearlessly and he did it well. Ten o'clock in the forenoon and Flannegan Job hill, where the thousand Irishmen were at work, gave no signs of an eruption. The "sun rode on in heaven" while two weary travelers, newspaper men, rode into the village. They had come to reinforce the citizens if necessary, and to inquire the particulars of the fight in any event. They didn't reinforce because that was not necessary; they did inquire, and the result will be found below:

Sunday, the 14th inst., an Irishman died at Guilford. Several of his friends came to Oxford to properly memorize the event. Whisky was taken and a little scrimmage ensued; nothing serious resulted. St. Patrick's Day, the 17th, was to be celebrated. Several Irishmen—there might have been eight, but no more—came to Oxford. One of the roughs of the village, named ATWATER, and an Irishman succeeded in getting into a fight about noon. Deputy-Sheriff FISH interfered to stop the affray and arrest ATWATER. The Deputy, in trying to do his duty, received some of the blows. The parties were separated. A short time afterward there was another fight, when FISH again parted the assailants and arrested one "London Dodger." He was taking his man to the Justice's office, when a friend of the Dodger's shouted, "Go in, Ireland, for your rights," and several Irelands immediately "went in" and the Dodger was rescued. In this scrimmage one of the Irishmen, having a four-ounce bottle of castor oil, broke the same over the deputy's head. The deputy then went to his shoe store, and, getting a spring bar of wood, (not iron,) came out again and saw three Irishmen and two women driving away in a sleigh. The driver had not been concerned at all in the fight. One of the others was dead drunk in the bottom of the sleigh, and the other—the man who broke the bottle of castor oil on the deputy's head—was sitting astride a flour barrel. The deputy attacked the latter and succeeded in arresting him and taking him into his office, where the case was settled by the Irishman giving Deputy FISH an order for $20. The order afterward proved worthless, fortunately for the deputy, as he would have been liable to arrest for compounding a felony. The two unoffending men left in the sleigh were then set upon by some roughs of the village, and pounded and kicked and beaten unmercifully. The roughs, not content with this, started for the hotel where two or three laborers were stopping. The Irishmen were chased into the street and kicked and abused and knocked down, until the respectable citizens of the place came to their rescue. On account of the abuse these celebraters of St. Patrick's Day received, one or two Oxford men, among them the President of the village, deemed it best to appoint a special police force for any emergency that might arise. The only Irishman that came to Oxford on Saturday was a man named DUNDON, the hero of the castor-oil bottle. He had come to secure the arrest of a man named PETTIS, and of Deputy FISH, for assault and battery. The order-loving citizens of Oxford condemn the action of the rowdies in severe terms, and will do all in their power to bring them to justice. Saturday passed quietly, and Sunday was a quiet day from religious necessity, on the part of the Irish at least. One Irishman only was severely hurt, and he will recover. Thus ended the battle of Flannegan's Job.

Murder in Connecticut.

From the New-Haven Journal, March 24.

The village of Barkhamsted, Litchfield County, was the scene of a most horrible murder at about 7 o'clock on Monday morning. The victim, JAMES HICKOX, of Pine Meadow, a machinist by trade, being unable to obtain work at his regular employment, went to Center Hill, Barkhamsted, and engaged himself to a man named EVANS, as a wood chopper. He had been boarding with EVANS for some weeks, and it is not known that there had been any difficulty between them. At the time of the murder they were sitting at breakfast together, when EVANS suddenly jumped up, seized the carving-knife, and throwing HICKOX's head back, cut his throat from ear to ear. HICKOX started up, with the blood streaming from the wound, and ran ten rods from the house, when he dropped dead. The murderer fled to the woods, and up to the latest accounts had escaped capture.

General Custer's Reported Capture.

From the Detroit Free Press, March 23.

Recent private letters from the command of General CUSTER show the improbability of the truth of the report of his capture by the Indians. At the date of his reported capture he had started for Camp Supply, and it is possible that at that post his delay in reaching it could not be accounted for, and that from this arose the presumption that he had been captured. These letters, however, inform us that he did not intend to proceed directly to Camp Supply, but to make a detour to the westward of some two hundred miles in order to visit some positions reported to be occupied by hostile Indians. This would occupy fully a week, and accounts for his not arriving at Camp Supply as soon as expected; while the fact that he was accompanied by the Seventh Regiment of Regular Cavalry, and a regiment of Kansas Cavalry, is the best guarantee against his meeting with anything that could defeat or capture him. He may have found some hostile Indians, and have been further delayed by the necessary operations against them, but we have no doubts of his safety, and expect only to hear of another of his brilliant and dashing military achievements.

Pierre Soule, of Louisiana.

From the New-Orleans Bee, March 20.

In the Second District Court, Judge DUPLANTIER, Messrs. CHARVET and DUPLANTIER, of counsel, have filed petition of ALLAIN EUSTIS, of this city, praying for the interdiction of Hon. PIERRE SOULE. The petition represents that PIERRE SOULE, residing in this city, is and has been for several months past laboring under an habitual state of insanity, which is notorious and apparent to all who see him, or converse with him, and that owing to said state of insanity he is utterly incompetent to take care of his person or to administer his estate; and that all of his acts show clearly that he is out of his right mind.

Petitioner further shows, that PIERRE SOULE was married to ARMANTINE MERCIER, now deceased, and that the sole issue of said marriage is one son, NELVIL SOULE, of lawful age; that PIERRE SOULE is owner of property, movable and immovable, in this City, and that owing to the insanity aforesaid he cannot administer the same; that he is living at the place aforesaid under the care of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. ANGELLA DE SENTMANAT, wife of NELVIL SOULE, the said NELVIL SOULE being at present in a delicate state of health; that she has done every thing in her power, and employed the best medical aid and assistance to cure him, but without success; that your petitioner having been requested, as an intimate friend and relative, by the said Mrs. SOULE, to procure the interdiction of the said PIERRE SOULE, he is under the painful necessity of applying to this Honorable Court for his interdiction; and that the said PIERRE SOULE be interdicted as an insane person. And petitioner prays for a general relief.

Upon a supplemental petition Judge DUVIGNEAUD appointed ALLAIN EUSTIS, the petitioner, as temporary administrator for the preservation of the movable and immovable property of the said PIERRE SOULE.

The Rights of Citizens—An Important Decision.

From the Burlington (Vt.) Free Press, March 23.

The case of WALKER vs. CRANE, which has been frequently alluded to in our columns, has recently reached a final conclusion in the court of last resort. The plaintiff is our worthy townsman, HIRAM WALKER. The defendant was in 1864 United States Provost Marshal, stationed at Rutland. Mr. WALKER, as some of our readers may remember, was in Rutland attending to some business in reference to procuring a substitute for a man in his employ, was taken for a bounty-jumper by Provost-Marshal CRANE, and rudely ordered from his office. For resenting this in not very carefully chosen language, Mr. WALKER was arrested by the Provost Marshal and marched to jail in charge of a file of soldiers. For this unlawful imprisonment, Mr. WALKER brought suit, obtained a verdict of $1,000 damages in the County and State Courts, and the Provost Marshal, (or the Government, which was understood to be backing its officer,) still appealing the case, it was carried to the United States Circuit Court with the same result, and was finally carried to the United States Supreme Court upon a writ of error. The United States Attorney-General, Mr. EVARTS, being satisfied that defence of the case could not be maintained, gave it up without argument. The writ of error was dismissed, and the judgment of the Circuit Court, giving Mr. WALKER $1,000 damages and his costs, was affirmed. The point of law involved was the right of the Provost Marshal to arrest a citizen in Vermont, who was resenting the rudeness of the officer, and the decision is that he had no such right, and that no act of Congress could, under the circumstances, give such right.

Appointment of Civil Officers in Virginia.

From the Richmond State Journal, March 22.

Since the Reconstruction Committee of the House refused to report upon General STONEMAN's proposition, to extend the time for vacating the public offices thirty days longer, all the clerical force at military headquarters has been busily engaged making out appointments recommended by the Board and approved by the Commanding-General. Over seven hundred appointments have already been made, embracing all classes of civil officers, but the majority of which are magistrates, constables, &c.

The time (21st inst.) having expired, the incumbents of the city and State offices have surrendered their positions. No appointments have yet been made to fill the State offices. We learn that General STONEMAN declines making these appointments himself, believing it to be a matter of courtesy due his successor, General CANBY, to allow him to choose his own civil staff. The latter officer is expected to arrive to-morrow afternoon.

The Reported Marriage of a Member of the Chinese Embassy.

From the Boston Journal, March 23.

An account has been published in the papers regarding the marriage in Paris of Mrs. PARKER, of this city, to M. DE CHAMPS, of the Chinese Embassy. It appears that for good and justifiable reasons the marriage did not take place. Mrs. PARKER is the widow of the son of HARVEY D. PARKER, of this city. An engagement was made some months ago, and the marriage was to take place in Paris. Mrs. PARKER, accompanied by her father-in-law, went to Paris, when the requirements of M. DE CHAMPS regarding the settlement of the dowry were so manifestly unjust, that even Mr. PARKER's liberal propositions were at length withdrawn and the engagement terminated. The bearing of Mrs. PARKER and Mr. H. D. PARKER is represented as having been highly creditable, and they were fully sustained by the leading Americans in Paris.

JAMES GUTHRIE'S WILL.—Much interest has been manifested within a day or two as to the manner in which the estate of Mr. GUTHRIE has been disposed of in his will. We find that it is very simple and concise in its character. After making a very handsome provision for each one of fourteen grandchildren, to be held in trust by their parents until they shall have reached twenty-four years of age, he divides the balance of the property, after payment of his debts, between his three daughters. The estate is valued at about $1,000,000, not including a large amount of property that was given to his children and grandchildren during his lifetime. The executors of his estate are his three sons-in-law, JOHN CAPERTON, Dr. WM. B. CALDWELL and Prof. J. LAWRENCE SMITH.—Louisville Courier-Journal, March 20.

POLITICAL ITEMS.

"The Press of Texas may announce me as a candidate for Governor." Such was the wording of a telegram sent from Washington to Galveston on the 18th of March by Hon. A. J. HAMILTON.

Prominent Republicans in New-Hampshire make haste to disavow any connection with the new political movement in that State. Having just beaten the Democrats in their nineteenth successive contest, they are satisfied with things as they are.

The Soldiers and Sailors' State Central Committee of Connecticut, of which General HAWLEY is Chairman, have published an address to the Boys in Blue, calling upon them to follow up their victory in November by one not less glorious in April. They say that with their candidates they can and should win, and this respecting the President: "The whole country, whatever captious leaders among our opponents may say, does in its heart believe that General GRANT will fearlessly, energetically, firmly and honestly labor to give the nation an honest, peaceful, economical and just administration."

It is said that Governor SENTER, of Tennessee, has decided that the expenses incurred by the militia must fall upon the people of the whole State, and not merely on the counties where martial law prevails. Thereupon a general protest comes up from all parts of the State against continuing the militia any longer in service.

In 1862, when Secretary BOUTWELL was first nominated for Congress, his competitor was the former member, CHARLES R. TRAIN, and the contest was so close that it seemed probable the delegates from a single town would decide the choice. The Springfield Republican says that Mr. BOUTWELL's law partner, the late JOHN GRIFFIN, used to tell in this connection a somewhat exaggerated story set on foot by one of Mr. TRAIN's warmest supporters in Concord. "When I got into the room at the Middlesex Hotel," said he, "expecting to find half a dozen men at the caucus, I saw thirty or forty. The first man I came to was EMERSON, the next ALCOTT, then HAWTHORNE, CHANNING, GEORGE BRADFORD, MINOT PRATT, and all the transcendentalists, and I knew it was all up with us." And so it proved, although not through the support of all of those named. Mr. EMERSON was quite zealous, and Mr. BOUTWELL received a large majority in the Convention.

The Republicans and independent Democrats of New-Haven have united upon a ticket for city officers, and ask for it the support of all citizens who desire efficient, capable and honest city officials.

General STONEMAN has issued an order calling upon those persons recently appointed to office in Virginia to enter upon their duties with the least possible delay. Those who will not act or cannot qualify are asked to notify him immediately.

General STONEMAN was recently asked by Mayor CAHOON, of Richmond, if the appointment of colored men on the Police force would meet his approval. In reply, General STONEMAN says that if a race is capable of furnishing proper and competent persons to fill the high and responsible position of Chief Magistrate of the State, it certainly is capable of furnishing men competent to fill the humble positions of city employes; and that he approves of the employment of negroes in all positions of a public or private character to which they are eligible and for which they are competent.

THE NAVY-YARD.

Dullness of Affairs—A Reaction Expected—Vessels to Sail and Arrive—Enlistments More Brisk.

Affairs at the Brooklyn Navy-yard at the present time are exceedingly dull, although a little reaction is expected if the Navy Department shall, according to prevalent rumors, order a reinforcement of vessels, material and men to our squadron in the vicinity of Cuba. The mechanical force in the yard has lately been increased to 980 men, most of this increase consisting of calkers. In 1864 the number of workmen, of all classes, employed there was 11,000, compared with which the present figures are very diminutive. Some time since the recruiting rendezvous in this City was closed, and until last week but a few enlistments were made. Now, however, there is quite an activity noticeable in the shipping of seamen, which is being done on board the receiving-ship Vermont. The frigate Sabine is in the great dry-dock undergoing repairs, and her destination is supposed to be Annapolis, to do service as a school-ship in place of the unseaworthy craft now stationed there. The remaining vessels at this depot, eighteen in number, are moored in the basin, idle and untenanted, except by the solitary watchmen. Most of these ships are sheltered from the weather by temporary roofs, which, added to their dismantled condition, gives them a very dismal and homely appearance. There are three unfinished vessels shut up in the ship-houses: Kalamazoo, which is to be one of the finest iron-clads in the service, the Java and the Ontario.

Two vessels from the European Squadron are expected to arrive home before the middle of April; the Frolic, under Commander HARMONY, and the Ticonderoga, under Captain WYMAN; the latter ship will probably go to Boston. The former vessel has been a tender to the Franklin, and the latter was Commodore PENNOCK's flag-ship during his command of the squadron, since Admiral FARRAGUT's departure.

The craft at the yard now are: The Hartford, FARRAGUT's old flagship; the Wachusetts, which destroyed the privateer Florida at Bahia, Brazil; the torpedo-boat Spuyten Duyvil, which is hauled up; the Canandaigua, which was left high and dry by the great earthquake at Santa Cruz; the monitor Roanoke; the steam frigates Colorado, Minnesota and Susquehanna; the Shawmut, Pequot, Huron, Algonquin, Neshaming, Mattawasca, Wampanoag, Mosholu, and others of a smaller class.

There are also the Memphis, a captured blockade-runner, and a Confederate torpedo-boat called the Minx. The vast machine-shops, ship and store houses are silent and solitary; and were it not for the occasional footfalls of some straggling visitor, the Police or passing employes, the Navy-yard would have all the appearance of a deserted place.

The New-York Sewers—A Yankee Treasure Seeker.

Yesterday morning, in the dim light of opening day, a singularly habited individual, incased in rubber boots with high leggings, rubber overcoat and cap, besmeared with mud, and carrying a capacious and well-filled carpet-bag, was observed issuing from the ferry-house, Hoboken. His appearance attracted the attention of Officer BURKE, who, well knowing the days of political carpet-bagging had mostly passed away, accosted the stranger, took him in charge as a suspicious character, and had him lodged in prison. In his cell of 8 by 4 the prisoner remained some hours, until the arrival of Justice POPE, before whom he was examined.

The bag was opened, and its contents spread out on the floor to be scrutinized by the Police Court officials. What a medley of articles met their gaze! There were old watches and silver spoons, knives, jewelry and bottles of liquor, a considerable quantity of old pennies, some of ancient date, 10-cent pieces, silver pencil-cases and finger-rings, (one of which is supposed to be a valuable diamond ring,) together with various other articles. He was asked by the Recorder to explain how these articles had got into his possession, and his explanation is a singular one, to say the least of it. He appeared to be an intelligent and well-educated man, and told a story which left no doubt on the mind of the Judge as to its truthfulness. He gave his name as JOHN W. CRANE, a "down-easter" by birth and residence. He had frequently heard fabulous accounts of the wealth of the Empire City, and having seen a year ago a paragraph in a Boston paper, describing the adventures of a woman and boy in the New-York sewers, he determined to seek for the treasures supposed to be contained in the underground city. He left the Hub and started for New-York, where he arrived in due time. With the spirit of adventure and shrewdness of a Yankee he provided himself with a rubber outfit, a ground map showing all the sewers in the City, a compass, candles and a six-shooter to protect himself against rats or anything else that might impede progress. After donning his waterproof apparel he entered a sewer in Houston-street, on Tuesday last, near the North River. He "picked" his way through all day, and never stopped until yesterday morning, when, having his bag filled, he emerged about 4 A. M. from a sewer near the Hoboken Ferry. His appearance being very uninviting, he considered it best to go to Hoboken for the purpose of cleaning himself preparatory to his appearance among his friends in New-York. Everything indicating his story to be true, the prisoner was discharged from custody.

Coroners' Cases.

Coroner FLYNN yesterday held an inquest at the Coroner's Office, No. 11 City Hall, in the case of the lad HENRY PETERS, whose death was caused by injuries received by being crushed between the bridge and the boat at the Hamilton Ferry. The testimony showed that the occurrence was purely accidental, and that the officers of the Ferry Company were in no wise responsible for the event. On the contrary, the deceased and another boy who had been playing upon the boat during the passage had been told to desist by one of the attachés and warned of their danger. A verdict of accidental death was rendered.

The body of an unknown man was found yesterday morning floating in the North River off the foot of Vesey-street. It was secured and taken to the Morgue, where Coroner FLYNN held an inquest.

WILLIAM DEVEL died yesterday at Bellevue Hospital from the effects of injuries received on the 3d inst., from being caught in the machinery of a factory at Greenpoint. Coroner FLYNN held an inquest, and a verdict of accidental death was rendered.

The body of an unknown man was found yesterday afternoon floating in the North River off the foot of Desbrosses-st, and was taken to the Morgue, where Coroner FLYNN held an inquest.

An unknown man, supposed to be a laborer, had his legs cut off yesterday by an Erie train, near the west end of the Tunnel. He was attempting to get on the train when the accident befell him.

The Newark M. E. Conference concluded yesterday. The Statistical Secretary, Rev. J. B. HUBBERT, reported the number of church members in the Conference to be 25,436; deaths during the year, 206; probationers, 209; local preachers, 135; baptisms, 2,239; churches, 219, valued at $1,686,350; parsonages, 94, valued at $357,000; collected for missions, $20,391; volumes in the library, 82,845.

In consequence of the malaria arising from stagnant pools in the Salt Meadows near Newark, the Kearney authorities intend to drain the Meadows.

The Hoboken taxes for the year ending March, 1869, have amounted to $375,000, of which over $50,000 yet remain in the Treasurer's hands.

At the last meeting of the Hoboken Common Council, a report was read in reference to the history of the Methodist Episcopal Church square, Hoboken, and the nature of the difficulties between the trustees of that building and the Council. In April, 1868, an act was passed by the Legislature declaring the church was illegally maintained, and authorizing the Common Council to purchase the fee of the square for $10,000, provided the people should approve. About a fortnight afterward the Council resolved to purchase the church building for $9,500; but the Mayor vetoed the resolution.

MISCELLANEOUS.

MEETING IN FAVOR OF CUBAN INDEPENDENCE.

The undersigned invite the citizens of New-York and vicinity to meet them at Steinway Hall, on THURSDAY EVENING, the 25th inst., to confer upon matters connected with the present condition of affairs in Cuba.

We are fully satisfied that the present struggle of the Cubans for independence is based upon principles of eternal justice; that the revolution which began five months ago has been growing in power ever since, and now includes the great body of the Cuban people, who are giving their money and blood freely for the attainment of their independence.

We would, in a public and formal way, express our sympathies for a people living on our very borders and almost a part of us, who are pledging their fortunes and lives to obtain rights long unjustly withheld from them.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

A large crowd assembled at the salesroom yesterday, but it lacked the enthusiasm and spirit of the previous day. There was but little excitement, and the bidding was slow. Several pieces of very desirable property were offered, but failed to realize the prices their owners held them at, and while some were really sold, very many were either withdrawn or bid in.

The reason for this falling off probably is the overcrowded state of the market. During the past three months twice as many City lots have been put up as are likely to be built upon in three times as many years. The demand was great, but the supply much greater, and, after the numerous large sales we have had, a decline now is but natural and to be expected.

It is scarcely fair to believe that any very serious change in the market will immediately occur, but it is hardly probable that the extravagant prices brought some few weeks ago will be obtained again this season. The speculators have a large amount of their capital locked up, and they are very wary how they invest the amounts of cash they have remaining and available. Others, purchasing for investment, have bought quite as much as they desire, and though there are yet a goodly number of persons ready to buy when a particularly favorable opportunity occurs, yet they are much more critical than they were but a little time ago, and not near so anxious. For these reasons, though the market may remain firm, it is pretty certain that it wil not advance.

To-day's sales are looked forward to with considerable interest by a large number of persons. The property offered is quite valuable, and embraces several pieces of the kind which have commanded the highest prices. A large crowd will undoubtedly attend, and it is to be hoped the results will be more satisfactory than yesterday.

To-day Messrs. BLEECKER, SON & CO. will sell four lots northwest corner of the Boulevard and Ninety-eighth-street; thirteen lots on north side of Ninety-eighth-street, east of Tenth-avenue; four lots north side of One Hundred and Seventh-street, west of Tenth-avenue; four lots directly in rear of the last described, on south side of One Hundred and Eighth-street; two lots on east side Madison-avenue, next to northeast corner of Forty-fourth-street; the three-story brick house and lot No. 110 West Twenty-seventh-street; three lots north side of Fifty-eighth-street, east of First-avenue. Also, the following valuable lots near the Central Park: Two fine lots on north side of Eighty-third-street, commencing 125 feet east of Ninth-avenue; two lots on south side of Eighty-fourth-street, immediately in the rear of the above lots; two fine lots on the north side of Seventy-fifth-street, west of Eleventh-avenue, and 228 lots at Mott Station, at the intersection of the Hunter's Point, South Side and Brooklyn Central Railroads, beautifully situated for immediate improvement.

Messrs. MULLER, WILKINS & CO. will sell the beautiful property, with all the improvements thereon, known as the Cornelius W. Lawrence place. It extends from the Bloomingdale road to the Hudson River, and from One Hundred and Thirty-third-street to One Hundred and Thirty-fifth-street. The Grand Boulevard runs through the property, giving four Boulevard fronts and the water grants extending to Thirteenth-avenue. The same firm offer a large assortment of up-town and Brooklyn property.

Messrs. E. H. LUDLOW & CO. will sell twenty-six valuable Boulevard, River Side, Park and West Side lots, comprising some very choice and desirable sites. They also offer, under executors' sale, several pieces of well located, improved and unimproved property.

Mr. JAMES M. MILLER will sell the property No. 11 James-slip; two lots on Lexington-avenue, south of Fifty-sixth-street, and the three-story brown-stone house and lot No. 107 West Twenty-seventh-street.

Messrs. JOHNSON & MILLER have a positive sale of 500 Maspeth lots, balance of the Van Meter estate. It is situated three miles from the Williamsburg and Greenpoint ferries, and will be sold on easy terms.

Messrs. A. D. MELLICK, Jr., & BRO. will sell sixty lots, with a mansion and water fronts, located at Bergen Point, N. J.

BROOKLYN REAL ESTATE.

PEREMPTORY SALE
Of the balance of the
VAN MATER ESTATE,
Consisting of
FIVE HUNDRED DESIRABLE LOTS
AT MASPETH,
By JOHNSON & MILLER, Auctioneers,
On THURSDAY, March 25, 1869,
At 12 o'clock M., at the
EXCHANGE SALESROOM,
No. 111 Broadway, New-York.

CLERKS, MECHANICS, and others of small means, wishing to purchase lots and build themselves homes, will find the
VAN MATER PROPERTY
the best suited to their wants of any that has been offered this Spring—and should not fail to make a thorough examination of every lot before the sale. Do not forget that is not a new place; there are over a hundred houses, stores, hotels, &c., on the lots of this estate, already sold.
SEVENTY PER CENT. CAN REMAIN THREE YEARS.

MASPETH

A new Methodist Church has just been finished on Perry-av., and a new Public School is being built on the corner of Perry and Cleremont avs.

Maspeth is much nearer the business part of New-York than Newtown, East New-York, Flatbush, Bay Ridge or Yorkville, being only a little over to 34th-st., 23d-st., 10th-st., Houston-st., Grand-st., James-slip and Roosevelt-st.
THREE MILES FROM THE FERRIES
THE TRACK IS LAID
FOR THE NEWTOWN AND MASPETH HORSE RAILROAD, from Grand and North 2d-st. ferries, through Maspeth-av., in front of the property, on which cars will, probably, be running early in the Summer.
THE DE KALB-AV. RAILROAD from Fulton ferry, has a charter for an extension to Newtown, also passing through Maspeth-av.

A new road is now being built to Newtown, crossing the property now offered, on which it is proposed to build a horse railroad.

MASPETH is located between the South Side and Flushing Railroads, being about half a mile from Winfield and Fresh Pond, and the Van Mater property is only a few hundred feet from Maspeth stations on the Flushing and South Side railroad.

Being just outside the City limits, the taxes are nominal, amounting to less than fifty cents each lot, per annum.

These lots will be sold for lower prices than are being paid for lots no better located at East New-York, a mile and a half further from the ferries, and they will be worth more than the East New-York lots as soon as the horse cars are started.

To reach the property take the North 2d or Grand-st. cars from either of the Williamsburg ferries to Bushwick, and there take the Maspeth and Newtown stage; or, take the Flushing Railroad, leaving James-slip at 7, 9:30, 11:30 A. M., 2, 5 and 6 P. M.; or 34th-st. at 6, 7:15, 9:45, 11:45 A. M.; 2:15, 5:15, 6:15, 7:40, 10:30 P. M., to Maspeth Station.

Returning, leave Maspeth at 5:53, 7:08, 9:13, 11:13 A. M.; 1:13, 3:43, 6:13, 7:31, 9:55 P. M.

ALBANY.

A Hitch in the State Aid Bill—Increasing the Sheriff's Fees—A Rising Sun—The Pro Rata Freight Bill—Executive Sessions, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, Wednesday, March 24, 1869.

The discussion on the State Aid Railroad bill last evening developed more opposition to the measure than was anticipated, and its friends abandoned their intention of pressing it to a vote before adjournment, as they designed to do. The hitch in the programme is said to have been caused by a rumor current yesterday that money was in the lobby ready to be used, if necessary, in aid of the measure, which led to the sudden discovery by certain members of serious objections to the bill, requiring further and more mature deliberation.

INCREASING FEES AND SALARIES.

The bill previously noticed, increasing the fees of the Sheriff of New-York, was favorably reported this morning from the Committee on Cities. O'BRIEN, the present Sheriff, claims that he only made $3,500 out of the office last year, which indicates either very bad business management or very superior honesty on his part over his predecessors, who are generally believed to have made a good thing out of the office. The present bill is expected to increase the Sheriff's income from $15,000 to $20,000 a year, in return for which he yields the privilege of appointing special deputies to guard the polls on election day. This bill, like the one reconstructing the Board of Education in New-York, is the work of JAMES A. RICHMOND, who appears in the Clerk's Manual as the sole representative of Republicanism in that City.

The bill increasing the salaries of the clerks of the Court of Common Pleas in New-York has been favorably reported, with amendments, and will put the clerks of that Court somewhere nearly on a par, as respects compensation, with the clerks of other Courts who have hitherto done less work and got more pay.

THE CONTESTED ELECTIONS.

The Committee on Contested Elections will probably report on the case of DECKER vs. HAWKINS to-morrow. Rumor says that HAWKINS will win the seat, which will make up for the loss of a Republican vote by the resignation of BANCROFT DAVIS.

THE PRO RATA FREIGHT BILL.

A hearing was had before the Joint Railroad Committee of the Senate and Assembly last evening on the bill to regulate transportation and freight on the railroads of the State. Mr. LUKE RANNEY, of Syracuse, stated to the Committee that the rates charged by the Central Railroad, on freight of the fourth class, was 35 cents per 100 pounds from New-York to Schenectady, a distance of 161 miles, while the same freight was carried from New-York to Cleveland, a distance of 627 miles, for 36 cents per 100 pounds. From New-York to Utica, (239 miles,) the same class freight is charged 45 cents per 100 pounds, while it is carried to Toledo (736 miles) for 43 cents per 100 pounds. Freight from New-York to Rochester, 373 miles, is 53 cents per 100, while the same is carried to Indianapolis, 906 miles, at the same rate. The rate to Lockport, 429 miles, is also the same (55 cents) as to Joliet, 1,019 miles.

It is estimated by people living on the line of the Central road, that this discrimination in favor of the West is shutting up their mills and destroying manufactures of all kinds, owing to the greater cheapness of land and labor in the West. The Railroad Company, on the other hand, claim that the above-mentioned instances are exceptional cases, and they asked time till Tuesday next to bring rebutting evidence to offset the damaging representations of Mr. RANNEY. The time was granted.

IN THE SENATE,

this morning, Mr. MATTOON gave notice of a motion to change the rules with regard to Executive sessions. As the rules stand now there will be only one more chance (the third Wednesday in April) for the Governor to send in names for the fat offices now held by Republicans. Some think this motion of the Senator from Oswego foreshadows the consummation of the long-talked of bargain between Tammany and the Senate, (or a portion thereof,) by which the Governor's nominees are to get confirmed.

THE QUARANTINE QUESTION.

In reply to resolutions passed by the House on the 16th inst., calling on Dr. SWINBURNE to inform the House by what authority they transferred to Ward's Island, direct from the ship James Foster, a large number of persons other than those suffering from ship fever, which are alone authorized by law to be transferred there—that gentleman sent to the House yesterday a very lengthy response. After referring that body to different sections of existing laws authorizing such action, he adds:

> I think it will not be questioned that my duty in reference to the passengers of the James Foster was clearly pointed out in these statutes. They were all alien emigrants, for whom bonds had been given or commutations paid, and the disease which had appeared among them was ship fever. The will of the Legislature, as expressed, clearly was that I should send the sick to hospitals under the charge of the Commissioner of Emigration, and that they should receive and take charge of those who had been exposed to the disease, but were not actually sick. Such being the law, I complied with its commands, and sent the sick and those in whom the disease appeared to be incubating to Ward's Island, and after a temporary detention allowed those who had been exposed to the disease, but were not sick, to proceed to Castle Garden, to be taken care of by the Commissioners of Emigration. If this action evinces an intent "to establish on Ward's Island a quarantine for the detention of alien emigrants," I respectfully submit that it is an intent for which I am in no way responsible, as I had no part in making the law—I have simply executed the law as I found it enacted by the Legislature, having no power to change or set it aside. The direction in the present laws to send ship fever patients to Ward's Island was evidently given to meet a pressing necessity, which was to be removed by making permanent provision for their treatment elsewhere, but such permanent provision has not been made, though the Legislature has been repeatedly urged to do so. Our recommendations have been so far heeded that provision has been made for the erection of structures on the west bank for the reception and care of the sick, and as a place for the detention of the well. A special report of the Board charged with the erection of such building is now before the Legislature, asking for further legislation as will enable them to complete it. As yet their recommendations remain unheeded, although several weeks have elapsed since they were submitted for your consideration.
> With the Legislature rests the responsibility of removing the grounds of complaint which have given rise to the passage of the resolutions to which this communication is an answer.
> (Signed) JOHN SWINBURNE,
> Health Officer.

The Question of Adjournment.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ALBANY, Wednesday, March 24.

A caucus of Republican Senators was held this evening, at which a resolution was passed unanimously in favor of an adjournment of the Legislature at the end of the one hundred days, which would be on the 14th of April. There was not a full attendance at the caucus, and it is hardly probable that the movement will succeed, though it would be fortunate for the State if it did. The bare announcement of the fact that such a proposition is entertained will create a panic in the lobby, and cause an increased fermentation of the corrupt element of the Legislature.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS—MARCH 24.

Before Judge Ingraham.

THE $17,000 DRAFT OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION—IS IT A FORGERY?

The People, &c., ex rel. James S. Burnton, John W. Burnton and The Board of Education vs. Peter B. Sweeny, Chamberlain, &c.—This was a motion for a peremptory writ of mandamus, to compel the City Chamberlain to pay to J. S. Burnton & Co. the sum of $1,414 92, that being the amount of a certain draft or warrant drawn by the Board of Education on the Chamberlain, payable to Burnton & Co. at the National Broadway Bank. Payment was refused by the Chamberlain on the ground that there were not sufficient funds in his hands to meet it, in consequence, as he alleges, of the payment of him by a certain draft or warrant which the Board claims was forged. This alleged forged draft, about which so much has been said within the last two years, was for $17,500, and was paid by the Broadway Bank to the person who presented it at their counter on the 20th day of April, 1867. The following is a copy of the draft or warrant:

"$17,500. NEW-YORK, April 19, 1867.

Chamberlain of the City of New-York, at the Broadway Bank, pay to the order of A. D. Collins, or bearer, seventeen thousand five hundred dollars, for A. D. Collins' claim in full, for building, No. 136 West Twenty-sixth-street.
J. M. McLEAN,
President of the Board of Education.
SAM'L B. H. VANCE, Chairman Finance Committee.
THOMAS BOESE, Clerk. No. 361." Board of Education. Countersigned. (Endorsed.) "Pay to bearer.
J. M. McLEAN, President Board of Education.
A. D. COLLINS."

The motion having been called on, Mr. W. E. Curtis, one of the counsel for the Board, read the affidavits of Thomas Boese, James S. Burnton, James M. McLean, S. B. H. Vance, John Davenport, Wilson Small, Jr., James W. Miller, Edward Haight, Daniel Burtnett, Archibald McLees, M. D. L. Hayes, Edward Schell, Alexander M. Eagleson, Frederick White, Richard Warren and Benjamin D. L. Southerland. We have space for only a few of the most material portions.

Mr. Boese, among other things, swears that the Chamberlain admits and claims that if he had not paid the forged draft there would have been sufficient moneys in his hands to pay the Burnton draft, and that he would have paid the same; that the said pretended draft or warrant of April 19, 1867, was in every respect spurious and fictitious; that it was never in fact drawn or signed by him, or by any of the other persons whose signatures or writing it purports to bear; nor was it in fact indorsed by James M. McLean, the President of the said Board; * * * that the warrant in question, purported to be "for A. D. Collins' claim in full for building No. 136 West Twenty-sixth-street;" and that to the best of his knowledge and belief, no person by the name of A. D. Collins ever did work for the Board of Education; and no warrant has ever been drawn in favor of a person by that name since he has been Clerk of said Board; nor has the Board of Education ever caused work to be done on a building on West Twenty-sixth-street; and that there is not now, nor has there been for the past twenty-five years, any school-house or building on said street, under the control of the Board of Education; that the officers of the Board of Education have not, to the best of his information and belief, ever signed a warrant for so great an amount as $17,500 for work done on a school-house; and he is positive that no warrant for so great an amount has been drawn for such a purpose since he has been Clerk of the Board, nor for any other purpose, unless for the purchase of sites for school-houses, and that then it is stated on the face of the warrant that it is for a building site. He further states that the number of the forged warrant was 361, whereas the lowest number on any warrants issued by the Board of Education and bearing date the 19th day of April, 1867, (the date of the forged warrant,) was 706, and that the National Broadway Bank had paid at least two hundred and fifty warrants, drawn by the officers of the Board of Education, of higher numbers before the forged warrant was paid; and to the best of his information and belief, the blank that was filled up was an imitation of the blanks used by the Board of Education, and was made by forgers for the purpose of obtaining money from the National Broadway Bank by means of a forged warrant. That he has examined every warrant issued during the four years prior to January, 1868, being the term of James M. McLean as President of the Board of Education, and that during that time he never indorsed a warrant on its back, identifying the party in whose favor it was drawn, or directed that it should be paid to bearer; and that the filling up of the warrant is not in the usual form prescribed by the rules and practice of the Clerk's Office.

James M. McLean swears that he was during the year 1867, and for three years previous thereto, President of the Board of Education of the City of New-York; that he has read the affidavit of Thomas Boese, and that the allegations therein contained as far as they relate to his acts, or to the said pretended draft or warrant for $17,500, of April 19, 1867, therein set forth, are true. He also says that the draft or warrant is in every respect spurious and fictitious, and that he never signed or indorsed the same, and that his pretended signature and indorsement thereof is a forgery; and that his first knowledge or intimation of said pretended draft or warrant was on or about the 17th day of May, 1867, when his attention was called to it by the Clerk of the Board of Education, when he at once saw that the signatures thereto were forgeries, and that the written portion in the filling out of said draft or warrant was not in the handwriting of any officer or clerk of the Board of Education. He further says, that he has never at any time during the term of office of Peter B. Sweeny as City Chamberlain, drawn any draft or warrant of the Board of Education payable to bearer, nor has he at any time indorsed it on the back payable to bearer, or for the purpose of identifying any one; nor has he signed any draft or warrant of the magnitude of $17,500, except for the purchase of a site for a school-house, and then that was stated on the face of the draft or warrant. That the drawing of drafts or warrants by the Board of Education on the City Chamberlain, has been at all times conducted in a careful, prudent and business-like manner, and that the payment of said forged draft was not caused by or contributed to in any way by the Board of Education, or by any act or omission of his; and that he never had any notice or intimation from the National Broadway Bank during the months of April or May, 1867, of any discrepancy in the account of the Board of Education with said bank; nor did the Board of Education or its officers or clerks have any, to his knowledge or belief.

The affidavit of Samuel B. H. Vance, a member of the Board, was substantially to the same effect as that of Mr. McLean.

Edward Haight, President of the National Bank of the Commonwealth, of this City; Daniel Burtnett, President pro tempore of the National Citizens' Bank; Archibald McLees, an engraver, and author of McLees Alphabets; Marquis D. L. Hayes, associate author of the Spencerian System of Penmanship; Edward Schell, Treasurer of the Manhattan Savings Institution; Alexander M. Eagleson, Paying Teller of the National Citizens' Bank; Frederick White, of Morris, White & Co., bankers; Richard Warren, former President of the Board of Education, and Benjamin D. S. Sutherland, Principal of Ward Grammar School No. 3, have all made affidavits to the effect that they have examined critically the warrant or draft in question, and that in their judgment the same is a forgery. Mr. Sutherland says it is "plain and apparent." Mr. Warren says, "the signature of the officers is very poorly done, and that the forgery of the names of McLean and Vance is perfectly apparent to any person who compares them with the genuine signatures;" Mr. White says, "that on the instant the draft was shown him he discovered it was a forgery, both as to the filling up and the signatures, much of which had been 'pointed' and 'lined over;'" Mr. Eagleson says, "the instant the draft was shown to him he saw that it was a forgery both as to all the signatures and the filling up thereof, most of which bore evidence of pointing."

Mr. Schell says he "discovered the draft to be a forgery immediately on its presentation to him, from the general appearance of the face of the same, both as to filling up and as to signatures; he has been familiar with the signature of J. M. McLean for a number of years, and the indorsement on the back of the warrant, of his name, is a plain and apparent forgery." Mr. Hayes swears that "it is a plain and apparent forgery; both the filling up and the signatures exhibit indications of being pointed." Mr. McLees swears "the warrant on its face bears unmistakable evidence of being a forgery, both as to filling up and signatures, which is easy discoverable by any person in the habit of examining signatures or writing, and should have attracted the attention of any clerk of a bank at all familiar with the genuine drafts of the Board." Mr. Burtnett swears "he is particularly familiar with the signature of the Board, with whom he has been associated for sixteen years, and the forgery was at once apparent."

Mr. Haight swore that, in his judgment, the draft is a forgery. He is well acquainted with the signature of McLean, and has examined the warrant in question.

On the part of Mr. Sweeny the affidavit of Francis A. Palmer was read. He is now, and has been for over nineteen years, President of the Broadway Bank; on the 20th of April, 1867, the bank paid $17,500 for the Board of Education, on a draft dated April 19, 1867, and purporting to have been drawn in the usual way. On the 22d of April the Board was informed how the account stood; a day or two after the Board sent the bank book down to be written up, and on the 25th of April, 1867, the book and vouchers were returned to the Board. The book then showed the charge of $17,500, and the balance was struck placing that amount on the debit side. No notice or intimation was given to the bank by the clerk of the Board, as to the genuineness of the draft, until the 17th of May, 1867, twenty-three days after the bank book had been returned to the Board. Deponent further says that after careful examination he is satisfied that the $17,500 draft (the blank) was printed on the plate used for printing the blanks of the Board at that time; also that the filling up is in the same handwriting in which warrants conceded to be genuine were at that time sometimes written; such is the resemblance of the signatures to those of the genuine that deponent would have no doubt of their genuineness, but for the denial of Messrs. McLean and Vance; during the months of April and May, 1867, and prior thereto, as deponent is informed, about 250 warrants or drafts were signed monthly by the Board of Education; that no warrant book was kept, but that warrants were signed in bundles, and no account was kept of these warrants except in some unofficial manner by the Clerk; that these loose bundles of warrants were sent out of the Clerk's office by different messengers to the respective places of business of the President and Chairman of the Finance Committee. * * * That these officers have no means of knowing whether a warrant is forged or not, except by such identification as they may be able to give of their signatures. * * * That said bank has never been able to trace the person or persons connected with the alleged forgery, but claims that whether the warrant is genuine or whether it is a forgery, it was kept concealed by a responsible officer of the Board of Education from April 25 to the 17th of May, following; that this necessarily prevented the detection of the forger and allowed his escape with the money; hence the bank is absolved from all liability arising from its payment.

Ansel E. Parkhurst made an affidavit in which he swears that for twelve years he has been connected with Broadway Bank as clerk, and part of the time paying teller; that he is now receiving teller of that bank. He paid the warrant for $17,500 in dispute; he had been in the habit of paying similar warrants for three years before; he was familiar with all the signatures of the officers by whom warrants were issued. The person who presented it stated that his name was A. D. Collins, and another person with whom I was acquainted stepped forward and identified him as the individual; otherwise deponent should not have paid the draft, notwithstanding the words "or bearer" and the indorsement. The filling up of the warrant was in one of the regular blank warrants used by the Board, and was apparently in the same handwriting in which others of the warrants of the Board were filled up. The signature of Mr. Boese was genuine, as I believed, as well as the other signatures. * * * There was great lack of uniformity and great irregularity and apparent carelessness in the signature of Mr. Boese to the warrants, while they were essentially alike in size, peculiar characteristics, general appearance, &c. * * * The checks drawn by the Board upon the Chamberlain vary in amount from $1 50 to $60,000; there is nothing peculiar in the amounts, and we do not know where they have school-houses or to what use the moneys are appropriated. Deponent, in conclusion, said: I have no doubt that the check numbered 361 was filled up by the person who frequently filled up the checks which came to the bank from the Board of Education.

Benjaman M. Clark, Jr., a book-keeper in the bank, and Philip Farley, a detective policeman, also made affidavits.

Peter B. Sweeny deposed that, as he is advised and believes, if any responsibility attaches to him, his obligation is due solely to the City of New-York; that the Broadway Bank has been made the depository of the money of the City, pursuant to statute. He waives all technical defences, and insists that the questions—first, is the warrant a forgery? and second, if so, whose official fault or negligence was it that the money was paid?—should be tried by a jury; and to that end he asks that issues be framed and the case tried at the Circuit.

After the reading of the affidavits, some discussion arose as to what disposition the Court should make of the case.

Mayor Hall, as counsel for Mr. Sweeney, said they should contend that the draft in question was no forgery, but a genuine instrument drawn by the regularly authorized officers of the Board.

Mr. E. W. Stoughton, counsel for the Board, objected to any delay. They had come into this Court for the purpose of getting a mandamus to compel the payment of a small draft to Mr. Burnton. This was the first they had heard of any denial of the forgery. He thought the question could hardly be considered as raised by the return. However, they would take the direction of the Court.

Mr. Hall said, what they now asked was that issues might be framed and settled by the Court, and the case be tried in the Circuit at an early day. After some further discussion the Court directed that issues be framed and the case sent to the Circuit for the first Monday in April next.

For the Board of Education, Mr. E. W. Stoughton and W. E. Curtis; for Chamberlain Sweeney, Messrs. Brown, Hall and Vanderpoel.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

Before Judge Ingraham.

THE ROOSEVELT HOSPITAL TRUST SUSTAINED.

Chas. D. Burrill, Executor, &c., vs. Julia M. Boardman, Executrix, &c., et al.—This action was brought by the executor of James C. R. Brown against the executrix of James H. Roosevelt, deceased, the Roosevelt Hospital and others, to have the bequests of personal property in the will of James H. Roosevelt to his executors in trust for the establishment of a hospital, declared void, and for judgment declaring that James H. Roosevelt died intestate as to the personal estate therein referred to, and that plaintiff is entitled to receive the same from the defendants. The will after disposing of the real estate, contains a bequest to his executors of $100,000, in trust, to receive the dividends, income, &c., to apply them to the use of his nephew, James C. R. Brown, for his life; after his death, to his issue, if living, and if none, then to pay the same to his residuary legatees in trust for the hospital endowments. And, also, a bequest of all the remainder of his personal estate, lapsed legacies, &c., to the Presidents, for the time being, of certain charitable institutions, and to Hon. James J. Roosevelt, Edwin Clark, John McKnox and Adrian H. Muller, and the survivors of them, for the establishment in the City of New-York of a hospital for the reception and relief of sick and diseased persons, and for its permanent endowment. Such institution was to be managed by nine trustees, and provision was made for filling vacancies. The will also contained a clause directing the trustees to apply to the Legislature for an act of incorporation to secure and perpetuate the hospital. The testator died Nov. 30, 1863, leaving as his heir at law his nephew, James C. R. Brown. The latter died Jan. 20, 1864, unmarried, leaving a will in which the plaintiff was named as his executor. By this will Brown ratified and confirmed the will of his uncle and the disposition of the property thereby made, and gave all his interest to the residuary devisees and legatees for the uses and purposes mentioned. The trustees named in the will of Roosevelt obtained from the Legislature an act of incorporation. The act was passed Feb. 2, 1864.

INGRAHAM, J., in an elaborate opinion, sums up the case substantially as follows: From a review of these cases, it is apparent that in all of them there was something wanting to make out a legal trust which could be enforced under the ordinary statutory provisions regulating trusts; either the want of a trustee at the death of the testator, or of a beneficiary who could take, or an illegal suspense of alienation, and that in order to sustain those trusts it would be necessary to resort to the cy pres doctrine, or some of the rules as formerly applied to cases of charitable uses. I have already stated that no one of these defects exists in the present case. There were trustees, capable of taking at the testator's death, in whom the estate could vest, there is a beneficiary capable of taking coming into existence within the limitation allowed by law, there is no illegal suspension beyond two lives in being, and the object of the trust is not one obnoxious to the law. It seems to me, therefore, unnecessary to examine the other questions argued before me, as to the effect of the will of Brown, and of the deed executed by him, further than I have done. If my view, in regard to the validity of the trusts, the deed and will become unnecessary to their validity. Nor is it of any use to discuss the question how far the case of Williams vs. Williams has been overruled or affected by subsequent decisions. My conclusions are that the provisions of this will are not illegal, nor affected by any of the cases referred to, and that the defendants should have judgment.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—PART II.—MARCH 24.

Before Judge Barnard.

A DIVORCE TRIAL—THE DEFENCE ABANDONED.

Henry F. Qaackenbos vs. Mary Genet Quackenbos.—The plaintiff in this suit is a practicing physician in this City. He brought the action for divorce on the ground of adultery. The parties were married in 1849. The acts complained of were all the way from 1850 to 1856. The jury having been empanelled, Mr. Wm. Fullerton, counsel for defendant, arose and addressed the Court. He said it was not a case which could be tried in two days; he had an engagement which would not allow of his engaging in the trial to-day.

Judge BANARD directed the trial to proceed.

Judge Fullerton—Then, your Honor, I withdraw from the case.

Plaintiff's counsel then opened the case to the jury, and examined several witnesses, after which the jury rendered a verdict for the plaintiff on all the issues.

For the plaintiff, Mr. Larocque; for defendant, Mr. Fullerton.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART I.

MARCH 24.

Before Chief Justice Barbour and a Jury.

A ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY DOLLAR FALL.

Bridget Doyle vs. Michael Mulrein.—Defendant was the contractor for the building of the St. James Parish School-house, and one Gallagher had the contract for digging the cellar. While defendant was erecting the building the cellar previously dug by Gallagher was left unprotected, so that plaintiff in passing fell in and sustained injuries. The case was defended on the ground that the injuries were the result of a nuisance which the defendant had no hand in creating. The question for the jury was whether the cellar excavation, which had been completed by Gallagher, came under the control of the defendant when he took possession of it for the purpose of erecting the building, and he thenceforth became responsible for its safe condition during the continuance of his contract. The jury found for plaintiff, and assessed damages at $150. The Court granted a stay of proceedings of thirty days for the preparation of a case for the General Term on the question of law.

H. E. Snebley for plaintiff; John W. Bennett and A. A. Redfield for defendant.

MARCH.—March having come in like a lion, seems likely, in obedience to the saying, to go out like a lamb. Let us not be too ungrateful to the blustering first week of the month, for it ushered in, with vernal promises, the reality of KNOX'S Spring styles. These exquisite specimens of the hatter's art are to be had (as we need not tell the fashionables) at No. 212 Broadway.
